DEMON BLOWS UP OWN HOME

Drink-Crazed Stone Mason at Bloomington Applies Dynamite.

KILLS HIMSELF AND A DAUGHTER

Two Children Badly Hurt; Wife Has Miraculous Escape.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 19.—In a demonical fit of insanity Mack Hurst, 50 years old, a stone mason, blew up his home with dynamite about 3 o'clock this morning, killing himself and one daughter, fatally wounding two other daughters and demolishing the house. Mrs. Hurst, in some remarkable manner, escaped. The dead:

MACK HURST, 50.

MAUDE HURST, 17, daughter.

The injured:

Fannie Hurst, 13, one leg blown off and body lacerated.

Elizabeth Hurst, 6, severely cut and bruised.

Fate Intended for Mother.

The dead girl met the fate intended for her mother, Rena, and the fact that they had changed beds for the night cost the daughter's life. The act was deliberately planned by Hurst. He stealthily in the darkness planted the dynamite, one stick under each of the three beds in the house and then tied two sticks of the explosive to his own body. However, only one of the five sticks, and that one attached to his body, exploded.

After placing the dynamite Hurst crawled into the bed, which he had formerly occupied with his wife, but which last night contained the three daughters, Maude, Fannie and Elizabeth. Fannie said something to her father and he replied:

"Lay down Rena (his wife) we will die together."

The explosion followed and aroused the whole city.

Escape is Remarkable.

The escape of the younger daughters, who were in bed with their father, is considered remarkable, as their sister and father were blown into many pieces. They were taken to the city hospital and, although seriously injured, probably will live.

Hurst had not been at his home for six weeks until last night, when he returned with the determination to wipe out the entire family. He had quarreled with his wife and left home, during a period of heavy drinking.

Yesterday he talked with his wife and she refused to take him back. That evening he met his daughter, Maude, as she was returning from work and asked her to intercede for him.

"I told pap," the girl smid to her mother when she got home, "that I would do all I could to get you to let him come back."

Hurst was a stone mason, but during the last two years had driven himself insane by drink. The family often was in want, but the mother and daughters were working to hold the children together.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 19.—What is said to be the first session of a convention ever conducted in a cemetery was held yesterday in Forest Lawn cemetery here, when the members of the Association of American Cemetery Superintendents, sat in twenty-seventh annual convention, transferred their deliberations from a local hotel.

INJURIES FATAL TO MAIL DRIVER

IN AUTO ACCIDENT

George Bucher, aged sixty years, driver of a mail collection wagon, died at 4:45 o'clock this morning at St. Joseph's hospital from injuries sustained at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening when his wagon was struck by an automobile driven by Charles B. Thatcher, of Auburn, on Clinton street, near the alley between Wayne and Berry. Bucher, it is said, saw that a collision was unavoidable, and jumped from the wagon, suffering a fractured skull when he hit the pavement.

Bucher was driving from the post-

MILITARY COURT MAKES FINDING

Deaths of Madero and Suarez Not Result of Punishable Crime.

LONG PROBE ENDED

Mexico City, Sept. 19.—The death of the late President Francisco Madero and Vice President Jose Maria Pino Suarez were not brought about by a punishable crime, according to a decision pronounced by the milit... court here today.

The investigation lasted six months. It was started by the military commandant of the federal district immediately on the conclusion of the ten days' battle on the streets of Mexico last February, which resulted in Provisional President Huerta coming into power. The result of the commandant's inquiry was forwarded to the permanent military tribunal, which continued the examination of witnesses.

Among those called by the court to give evidence was Major Francisco Cardenas, who commanded the escort which conveyed President Madero and Vice President Pino Suarez from the national palace to the penitentiary. Two subordinate officers of rural guards and a number of residents in the vicinity of the jail also were examined.

HAD RIDDEN BUT ONCE ON TRAIN

Mrs. Mary Ruggles Wilson, Aged 99, Dies Near Shelbyville.

Shelbyville, Ind., Sept. 19.—Mrs. Mary Ruggles Wilson, aged 99 last July, the oldest woman in Shelby county, is dead at the home of her daughter in Moral township. She had been a resident of this county for 79 years. Her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Breedlove, with whom she was living, is 75 years old. Mrs. Wilson had never seen an interurban car and had traveled on a steam railroad only once.

STOUTEST WOMAN FINALLY GETS ABOARD HER TRAIN.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 19.—Her husband, three ushers, two baggagemen and a large freight truck were required to help the stoutest woman who ever passed through St. Louis, to board a train here last night. She was Mrs. Lizzie Gion and according to her husband tips the beam at 750 pounds. The Gions came here from Cleveland, Ohio. They declared they had covered 9,000 in a vain search for a homestead through Canada and the west. Gion weighs less than 130 pounds. At the time of their marriage Mrs. Gion, who now is 57 years old, weighed 400 pounds, he said.

School Children in Force Makes Best of Their Opportunity.

People who were cheated of the opportunity to visit the Fort Wayne fair during the first two days by the rain evidently are determined to make up for lost time and by the time the grounds were opened this morning they began to flock to the park apparently afraid the weather man might play some more tricks on them and prevent them from going out tomorrow.

Horse racing was started early so that the card could be run off and there was promise of some good time. This was

RUSH OFFICERS INTO THE CASE

But Get No Clue to Robbers Who Shot Store Clerks at Grand Rapids.

THIRD MAY SUCCUMB

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 19.—A corps of outside detectives arrived here today to assist the local police department in its efforts to capture the robbers who late yesterday afternoon held up three clerks in the John N. Thompson jewelry store here, killed two of them, perhaps fatally injured the third and escaped with about $2,000 worth of jewelry.

Although the wounded clerk recovered consciousness last night long enough to give the officers a fairly good description of the robbers, the police this forenoon had failed to get any definite clues as to their whereabouts. Several suspects were taken into custody and later released.

The victims of the shooting were John N. Thompson and Edward Smith, who were killed, and Paul Townsend, the watchmaker, who is still alive, but in a precarious condition. After the shooting the robbers stopped only a couple of minutes to gather up a few diamonds and watches and then escaped in the crowded streets.

HE HAD PLANNED OTHER MURDERS

New Evidence Developed in Search of Schmidt's Apartments.

SEARCH FOR WOMAN

New York, Sept. 19.—Detectives rummaging through the effects of Hans Schmidt, confessed murderer of Anna Aumuller, were strengthened today in their belief that he had planned other murders by finding complete sets of health department blanks necessary to dispose of bodies, from death certificates to undertakers' permits. Such blanks are issued by the department only to physicians in good standing whose records have been rigidly investigated. How Schmidt got them was unknown.

With the finding of these blanks the police redoubled their search for Helen Green, who vanished a month ago after writing Schmidt that she could not live without him. She was believed to be in Chicago. Schmidt told the detectives that she was a casual acquaintance.

Raking over the past of Ernest Muret, the dentist friend of Schmidt, implicated with Schmidt in counterfeiting operations, Inspector Faurot, head of the detective bureau, had this to say: "I have learned that Dr. Muret was in Chicago at the time of the investigation into the life of Johannes Hoch, the "Bluebeard" of Chicago in 1905. Hoch was arrested in that year after, it was charged, he had killed 18 of his wives. There was a report that the number of wives would reach fifty."

No charge in connection with Anna Aumuller's death has been made against Muret nor has a counterfeiting charge been made against him. Muret is in the Tombs awaiting sentence for having violated the Sullivan law in having a pistol in his possession.

The whereabouts of Helen Green concerned the detectives more today, perhaps than any other feature of the case. She rented a room in an apartment at 201 West 100th street during the last two weeks in January. She kept much to herself and left there about a month ago, saying that she was going to Chicago. Detectives have established the fact that Smith rented an apartment not far away about the same time and that to his apartment he brought with him a five-year-old boy. Schmidt rented this apartment under the name of Van Dyne, one of his aliases found to have been used in several other instances, and told the janitress that the boy was his son.

SCENE IS TOUCHING

New York, Sept. 19.—The body of William J. Gaynor, mayor of New York, who died at sea Sept. 10, lay today in the privacy of his Brooklyn home. In a drizzling rain it was lowered at 4 o'clock this morning from the high decks of the liner Lusitania to the boat Correction. Through a mist that lay heavy over the harbor the Correction steamed an hour and a half later to the pier at the Battery. There a picked squad of

SULZER LOSES FIRST FIGHT

Four Challenged Senators Permitted to Retain Their Seats.

VOTE UNANIMOUS ON THE QUESTION

Reading of Long Articles of Impeachment is Taken Up.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Gov. Sulzer's lawyers lost their first fight in the high court of impeachment today when the four senators challenged by the defense were permitted to retain their seats.

The vote which was on the question of whether the court should entertain the challenges was unanimous against such procedure. The four senators directly concerned, Frawley, Wagner, Ramsperger and Sanner, did not vote.

Immediately following the vote of the court, the reading of the long articles of impeachment was begun. Although Presiding Judge Cullen had the right to decide the question of the qualifications of the senators for holding their seats, he did not take advantage of this prerogative. He first expressed his opinion that the objections were not well grounded and then per-

Michigan Metropolis Chosen for 1914 National Encampment.

When the encampment convened this morning the choice of commander-in-chief to succeed General Alfred B. Beers, apparently still was between Col. C. E. Adams, of Superior, Neb., and Washington Gardner, of Albion, Mich.

FORT WAYNE VOTERS SHOULD STUDY THE NON-PARTISAN PLATFORM

(By the Non-Partisan City Central Committee.)

To the Voters of Fort Wayne:

The platform of the non-partisan movement is worth your study. It is the declaration upon which the candidates of the non-partisan ticket are standing and the promise by which they are solemnly bound. You will be impressed, the more you consider its details, that it is a sound and dependable set of principles upon which to operate the government of Fort Wayne. It is progressive and constructive, but is not rash or extravagant in any detail. What it pledges is within the bounds of practical achievement by a non-partisan administration. It is the statement of a large plan to perform puble service for the people of this city, concerning those things which relate to the interests of all tax-payers, and which bear with the greatest directness upon the welfare of all within the city. The non-partisan city central committee invites you to a brief and candid daily study of some municipal issue, set forth in the non-partisan platform. It is your welfare that is at stake in this contest. Fort Wayne is a city of home owners. You owe it to yourself and your family to choose in this campaign that course of action which will be best for yourself and your family to choose in tion which will be best for yourself, for them and the whole city.

"Trained Monkeys"

ARNOLD HITZEMAN was firm in his declaration that the thing was not an aeroplane, but George Jenson was just as positive that it certainly was. Both men are draughtsmen in the Pennsylvania shops, and they were standing in the middle of Clinton street at noon, Wednesday, looking skyward as they discussed the proposition. There, looking a good deal like a speck in the sky, but seeming to have motion, was something visible to the naked eye. Mr. Jenson declared it to be an aeroplane, while Mr. Hitzeman took the negative side of the debate.

"Now, look here," said Jenson, "I have seen aeroplanes ever since I was a child. I know aeroplanes from A to Z—and I tell you that is an aeroplane if I ever saw one. It has come out from the fair grounds, and it's one of the prettiest flights I've ever seen."

By this time the actions of the pair had attracted some attention from people in the near-by buildings, and these, with some passers-by, joined Mr. Jensen and Mr. Hitzeman to see what was the matter. The small crowd attracted a larger one, and as everyone fixed his eyes on the distant object the spreading curiosity commenced to draw people from all directions until the gathering assumed the appearance of a mob, for the discussion became general and the adherents of the two sides began to grow vehement in their contentions.

In the midst of it all Fred Walters, the watchman at the Clinton street entrance to the shops, slipped over to his office and brought back a large spy-glass, through which he surveyed the sky and finally alighted upon the debatable object.

The discussion became general.

"What is it?" cried the crowd as he lowered the instrument and grinned.

"It's a kite with a streamer attached to it," he said. "The streamer is an advertisement of a theater that's got a trained monkey on the program. We can go 'em one better—we've got a whole street full of trained monkeys right here"—and he made a quick run to escape the crowd which chased him to the watchman's office, into which he darted just as the whistle blew for everybody to quit sky-gazing and get back to work.

foreshadowed in the early heats by the steeds that had been stabled long enough to put them on their mettle. Auto trucks were used before the racing started to smooth out the few rough places and everything done to gratify the horsemen, who have only one afternoon left to clean up for the getaway.

Attractions Are to Remain.

Attractions booked for the five days decided to remain as long as there was anything doing on the grounds as the owners had to make up for the losses of the first and second days.

All of them realized that with Bob Burman, the great speed king, as the top-line offering for Saturday that big crowds could be expected for Saturday and with the introduction of auto polo as an added feature it was practically certain that the people would turn out.

Auto polo, by the way, was thrown in for good measure. When Burman booked in at Fort Wayne he had nothing to say about the new game and it was not until the advance men got here that it became known that this thriller would be added to the others on the regular card.

People who are not interested in horse racing are greatly interested in the fair as it practically closes the summer amusements and in this particular case winds up the fair at its present location for all time to come and lots of them just go out to see the pike, the live stock, the poultry and the other shows as a farewell to the grounds in which they have been amused for many long years.

Attendance Good Thursday.

The attendance for Thursday was so good that even Treasurer Will Hagenauer smiled when he counted up the receipts. Handling money is a very serious occupation and men who are engaged in this entrancing pastime become absorbed and do not have much time to smile, but the receipts yesterday were so pleasing that the treasurer was happy today. Reports from the gates indicated that by night he would have another smile coming.

Liberal patronage is being bestowed by the people from the country and there is evidence in the grove of the regular old-fashioned fair as it was full of rigs during the day and lunches were served from baskets of the fried chicken and good apple pie variety familiar in the old days.

Babies Kept Tent Crowded.

Curious people crowded the better babies tent all day and watched the nurses and physicians handling the little ones in their critical examinations of the men and women of tomorrow.

If little Miss Margaret Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Roberts, 1416 Walton avenue, had been a mite taller she would have scored perfectly, but as it was she was just a fraction of a point from being perfect in her physical tests, which were very severe.

A close second and one of the highest scored among the boy babies was Ronald Charles Hoff, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl B. Hoff, 915 Suvilla avenue. There were plenty more awaiting this afternoon when the attendants arrived with the promise that some more Allen county tots would prove that as a whole the community is raising some healthy and pretty little fellows.

School Children Out.

School children took advantage of the closing of all the buildings in the city and they peered into every nook on the ground and had a good time. Children from the orphans' homes were invited to be the guests of the management and they were out early to see all that was to be seen and apparently enjoyed the hospitality of the fair promoters.

At noon more street cars were called into service by the traction heads to accommodate the crowd and there was a big jam at Calhoun and Main streets where the cars were rapidly filled and sent away with the fair crowds.

occurred. The automobile had turned into Clinton street from Wayne and was going north at a high rate of speed, according to witnesses. The mail wagon was damaged to the extent of $50. Charles Kasbaum, a sub-carrier, who was riding on the vehicle, was uninjured and it is believed that Bucher would have escaped injury had he also remained on the wagon.

He was removed to the hospital in the police ambulance, and an examination made by Dr. A. H. Macbeth showed that a concussion of the brain resulted from the fractured skull. The fracture was four inches back of the left ear. Mr. Bucher had only been driving the mail wagon one week and prior to that time he was employed by the city as a laborer.

Came to See Show.

With Mr. Thatcher in the automobile were Mr. and Mrs. Francis R. Harris and Miss Mabel Hebel, all of Auburn. The party motored to Fort Wayne earlier in the evening and had planned to witness a performance at one of the local theaters. The machine is owned by Miss Hebel. Acquaintances of Thatcher say that he is a careful driver and is an experienced man at the steering gear, having driven a machine in the Glidden tour two years ago.

Mr. Bucher had resided in Fort Wayne fifteen years. He was born near Fostoria, O., and came here from that place. For several years he was employed as a laborer by the city. His wife died one year ago last April, and since that time he had been living alone at 1922 Prince street. He is survived by two sons, Floyd Bucher, of this city, and Fred Bucher, of Kalamazoo. He also leaves an aged step-mother, Mrs. John Bucher, of Fostoria, and two half-sisters, Mrs. Ella Hall and Mrs. Charles Bressler, both of Fostoria.

Coroner E. H. Kruse will hold an inquest into the cause of Mr. Bucher's death Saturday afternoon, starting at 4 o'clock at his office on East Berry street.

Calumet, Mich., Sept 18.—While on picket duty at the Isle Royale mine in the copper miners' strike zone before daylight this morning, Randolph Harvey, a private of Company A, of Kalamazoo, was shot from ambush and seriously wounded. The bullet penetrated the soldier's right arm. It is not believed the wound will result seriously.

A general alarm was sounded and soldiers and deputies scoured the woods near by but found no trace of the would-be assassin. The shooting is believed to have been done by a strike sympathizer.

HAIBER FINISHES GETTING MARRIED

NEWS OF THE POLICE

At the hymeneal alter presided over by Justice Henry Graebner there was this morning completed a marital negotiation begun last March by George Haiber and Mary Murshak. Haiber, who was arrested yesterday on a charge of wife desertion, consented this morning, after a talk with Judge Mungovan and Prosecutor Callahan, in the city court, to have a marriage legally performed and in custody of Detective Sergeant Pappert and accompanied by the girl, went to the justice's office, where he was made right and tight little husband and the father of his unborn child. After bringing the Murshak girl into embarrassment Haiber sought to escape the consequences of loving not wisely, but too well, by making her believe that a marriage license constituted a marriage. They cohabited as man and wife from last March until two or three weeks ago, when Haiber fled the city. He returned and was arrested on the advice of Prosecutor H. H. Hilgeman, who believed a common law marriage could be established and that Haiber was amenable to the statutes for wife desertion. To lift the status of the girl above all question and fully establish the legitimacy of her child. Haiber was made to see that a marrage ceremony was best for him and after demurring a bit he consented. Mrs. Haiber is to report his conduct to the court from time to time.

Held for Investigation.

Roll Slimbuch slated for drunkenness, and Pete Parker, colored, booked for loitering, were continued for a week in the city court under $200 bonds while an investigation of them can be made by the police. They were arrested at the fair grounds on suspicion of having stolen several overcoats there.

Other City Court Cases.

Henry Thompson, a loiterer, picked up at the Nickel Plate station, gave a plausible account of himself and was released.

Henry Slagle was found drunk on the porch of an east end residence. He declared he was not drunk, but tired and had stretched out for a sleep. He was allowed to go.

Henry Meinhart, a cigarmaker, was still too drunk to be arraigned this morning and his case was continued until tomorrow.

Frank Wilkinson, held for several days under a continuance to get him straightened out from a prolonged debauch, was released.

The cases of Joseph Mariaa and Joseph Colone, charged with assault and battery, were continued a week. The men are wanted as witnesses in the case of Josie LaRosa, who stabbed another Italian woman during an affray on Melita street several weeks ago.

GAYNOR'S BODY RESTS AT HOME

100 police who had stood all night in the rain, formed its escort to Brooklyn.

The funeral ship glided into the harbor and came to anchor at Quarantine at 1:20 o'clock this morning, the American flag at her stern drooping at half mast. A dozen stalwart sailors carried the body in its heavy lead casket from the mortuary chapel to the deck. The carpet of flowers under which it lay was removed and only the great American flag placed over the casket at Liverpool covered it as a windlass lowered it slowly twenty feet down an inclined plane to the deck of the Correction. Aboard the smaller boat the body was taken to a heavily draped catafalque in the center of the upper deck on which rested a coffin. The body was placed in the coffin and the lid closed; a wreath and a branch of palms were placed above it. The Correction cast off and dropped anchor a short distance away, awaiting the coming of day.

The black mist had changed to gray when the engines began to throb and she started on her short journey to the battery. The rain had ceased. It was full day when the Correction came to rest in her slip. Eight six-foot pallbearers four in the uniform of the fire department and four in the uniform of the police, each man with a bit of crepe on his sleeve, lifted the casket to their shoulders and bore it over the gang plank to the hearse. The long vigil of the picked squad of mounted police, sent at 9 o'clock last night to the pier, came to an end. They stood at attention, each man at his horse's head as the casket was placed in the hearse and then mounting their horses led the funeral train through the deserted streets.

ALL HAVE SQUIRREL PIE.

Evanston Children Hunt Animals as City Council Lifts Ban.

Evanston, Ill., Sept. 19.—Scores of children today went hunting for squirrels which have become so pestiferous that the city council Wednesday repealed an ordinance which protected the animals. There will be squirrel pie in many homes here tomorrow. Under the protection of the law squirrels have become so numerous and fearless that they have cut holes in roofs, built nests in garrets and chased away birds. One of them perched on the sill of an open window in the council room when the aldermen were hearing the complaints of citizens.

HOUSE MEMBERS TO STAY ON JOB

As Moral Influence Over the Slender Democratic Control in Senate.

NO RECESS IN SIGHT

Washington, Sept. 19.—The big democratic majority in the house will be kept in Washington as a moral influence over the slender democratic control in the senate while the currency bill is under way, according to plans made today by house leaders who definitely rejected, for the present at least, the idea of a thirty day recess. After a conference with President Wilson Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, chairman of the house caucus, declared no effort would be made for an extended recess for the house.

It is understood the president believes the presence of the house will have the effect of strengthning th administration's effort to pass the currency bill in the snate.

Action by October 6.

Fresh from its triumphant passage in the house the entrance of the administration currency bill to its gauntlet in the senate was signalized by a statement from Chairman Owen, of the banking committee that he expected the measure out of committee and on the senate floor for action by October 6. "I believe I am as fully prepared to act on currency bill now as I would be if I gave it much longer study," said Senator Shaffroth, another democratic member of the committee. "I believe congress should dispose of it before the next regular s[illegible] begins."

President Wilson's conference last night with Senator Reed, one of the committee democrats who have criticised many provisions of the bill adversely, will be followed, it is expected, by individual conferences with other democrats who have shown opposition to the measure or criticised its vital features. With the aid of Secretary McAdoo, the president will endeavor to overcome some of their arguments and bring the senate committee to the support of the bill. Should Senator Hitchcock continue opposition to immediate currency legislation his aid would enable the republicans to prevent, by a tie vote, any affirmative action or reporting the bill at once to the senate.

Important Tariff Steps.

Two important steps toward completing the tariff bill were made today when the democratic conferees decided to retain a moderate duty on Angora goat hair and mohair and to free list ferro manganese ore. The house had put a duty of 15 per cent ad valorem on ferro manganese ore, of which there are large imports for steel manufacturing purposes. The decision to free list it followed a decision of the conferees to free pig iron and other cheap grades of iron and cutting down the house rates on many forms of manufactured iron. The senate yielded in its demand for free Angora wool and the conferees compromised on Angora wool, mohair and yarns and cloths made from Angora goat hair. The figures adopted were not made public but are understood to be about midway between the house and senate rates. The senate gave way today in its demand for specific rates in the silk schedule levying a definite duty on each pound of imported silk products. The ad valorem plan proposed by the house was adopted with slight reductions on certain articles.

MRS. LEHMAN NOT IN IT.

The published statement that trouble on John street a few days ago occurred at No. 1820 was erroneous. Mrs. J. Lehman, who resides a tthat number, was not involved in any way in the quarrel of the several women. It was also a misstatement that Mrs. Schuleke threw the pop bottle that struck and injured Mrs. Noviski. Warrants have been issued and the case will be heard in police court Monday.

MEETING IN SIXTH WARD ON TUESDAY

Thomas, Ballou and Buck to Address Non-Partisan Gathering.

10TH WARD SPEAKERS

All arrangements have been completed for the second of a series of non-partisan ward meetings, and on next Tuesday evening Albert E. Thomas, chairman of the non-partisan central committee, William N. Ballou and Charles H. Buck, non-partisan candidate for mayor, will address the voters of the Sixth ward in the building at the corner of Indiana and Cottage avenues, which has been secured as permanent headquarters for the non-partisans in that part of the city. It is said that there is unlimited sentiment in favor of the candidacy of Mr. Buck in the Sixth ward, and in fact this particular portion of the city will pile up a big majority for him next November.

A meeting of the city central committee was held Thursday evening and the members were urged to get busy immediately on arrangements for the next registration period, to be held in October. Poll takers declared that the majority of doubtful voters who have thus far refused to openly announce their sentiments may safely be counted non-partisans, and it was found that the doubtful vote is a distinct compliment to the non-partisan movement.

A meeting of Tenth ward voters will be held Saturday night in Bowser's hall and will be addressed by Judge John H. Aiken, chairman of the speaking committee, Mr. Buck and William C. Geake. This will be the first non-partisan ward meeting since the movement was organized.

LEWIS NAMED AT TIPTON.

Tipton, Ind., Sept. 19.—J. A. Lewis was nominated as candidate for mayor in the democratic primaries here yesterday by a majority of 168 votes. W. S. Falker was nominated for city treasurer and John Small for city clerk.

mitted the entire court to vote on the issue.

After Legal Argument.

In addressing the court Judge Cullen said that no court had the right to sit in judgment on any one of its members. In this, he said, a court differed greatly from a jury, the qualifications of members of which might be decided by the courts.

The vote came after a morning of legal argument between Judges Herrick and Parker, representing the defense and the prosecution, respectively. Judge Herrick's chief argument was that no man might sit both as prosecutor and judge. In reply Judge Parker said the members of the court were here as representatives of the whole people that the people established the court of impeachment in the beginning and that none other than the people had a right to remove their representatives.

Scene Vastly Different.

The scene within the court room this morning was vastly different from that presented yesterday. Less than half the galleries were occupied at the opening of the arguments. Throughout the morning spectators moved in and out but at no time were all the seats filled. Prospects of a witness being sworn soon after the articles of impeachment were read, brought a larger crowd this afternoon, however.

Gov. Sulzer's personal friend and special investigator, James C. Garrison, slept last night in a cell of the Albany county penitentiary. He was remanded to that institution by the sergeant-at-arms of the stae assembly for refusing to answer questions put to him by the speaker following arrest on a charge of contempt. The charge grew out of his alleged statement several weeks ago that four legislators sold their votes on the resolution impeaching Gov. Sulzer.

Plans to Ask for Writ.

Plans by the Sulzer faction today were to obtain a writ of habeas corpus from the supreme court for release of Garrison. Majority Leader Levy said such action would be impossible as the assembly had "plenary power to punish for contempt." The appellate court so held in a similar case several years ago. If the courts should hold this view Garrison might be kept in prison until next January, when a new legislature convenes. The alleged offense is unbailable it is said.

The arrest of Garrison came as a climax to a weary evening spent by the assembly in an attempt to round up the seventy-six votes necessary to pass additional articles of impeachment against Governor Sulzer. The body finally adjourned at 2:33 o'clock this morning after an impassioned plea from Majority Leader Levy for a better attendance when the assembly convened at noon today. Telegrams were rushed to anti-Sulzer assemblymen who are out of the city urging them to return here immediately. Tammany lieutenants were ordered not to permit a single man already in Albany to leave. The assembly men are therefore virtually prisoners in the city.

Much More Ceremony.

The convening of the court this afternoon was attended by greater ceremony than has featured previous sessions. Pursuant to the rules of procedure adopted during the morning, the members of the senate formed in long double lines in the outer lobby. Then the senate sergeant at arms and the crier of the court of appeals appeared, escorting the judges of the court. As they passed through the lines of senators the crier advanced to the rostrum and in measured tones announced the approach of the "high court of impeachment." Attorney John B. Etanchfield, representing the board of managers, opened the proceedings by making answer briefly to the allegations of the governor that the impeachment proceedings were irregular.

Subsequently Attorney Marshall began a lengthy argument in support of the contention of Governor Sulzer's counsel that the assembly was not constitutionally convened when the impeachment articles were adopted and that therefore the impeachment was invalid.

Governor Sulzer today for the first time formally recognized the right of Lieut. Gov. Glynn to exercise the prerogatives of the chief executive of the state pending the determination of the impeachment charges. On the advice of counsel a request for the extradition of a prisoner received by the impeached executive was turned over to Acting Governor Glynn.

STOVE WAS OVERHEATED.

Set Fire to House and Caused Damage to Extent of $100.

An overheated cooking stove set fire to the one and one-half story frame building at 1802 Eliza street at noon today, and before the department could extinguish the blaze the building and furniture had been damaged to the extent of $100. The house is owned by W. H. Oetting and occupied by the family of John Rabel.

PEGGY'S A BRIGHT, TWINKLING STAR NOW.

She Landed the Leading Role in "Peg o' My Heart" Over 400 Girls Who Wanted to Be Stars, Too.

MISS PEGGY O'NEIL.

How happy do you think a girl must be who answered a newspaper appeal made by a theatrical manager for a successor to his biggest star—and landed the job??

This is the girl—Peggy O'Neil.

Oliver Morosco, the theatrical manager of New York, wanted an actress to play Laurette Taylor's part in a "Peg o' My Heart" company which is soon to take the road, and to prepare herself for other leading roles under the direction of Morosco.

My, what a pilgrimage there was to Morosco offices! The hallways and stairways of the building in which the western manager does business were filled with pretty girls—just 40 to be exact.

And of the multitude Peggy was chosen.

ARE YOU INSANE? DO NOT DESPAIR

There is Hope for Every Crazy Man or Woman, Says Beers.

THIS MAN PROVES IT

New York, Sept. 19.—When an insane man enters the shadows of an asylum and the door of his cell clangs shut, is all hope gone?

CLIFFORD W. BEERS, ONCE "VIOLENTLY" INSANE.

"No!" says Clifford W. Beers, and proves it by his own experience.

Beers, a Yale graduate, was crazy—absolutely stark, raving crazy. There can be no question about it. For nearly three years he was an inmate of hospitals for the insane. A large part of that time he seemed as hopeless as any maniac who ever wore a straight jacket in the padded cell of a "violent" ward. For many months his mind was so shattered that his mere physical life was despaired of.

Now Beers is a scientist of national repute, the author of admitted masterpieces of narrative, analysis and logic, a man whose mental power and poise compel respect—a healthy, sane, useful member of society.

Beers came strikingly into public notice at the recent congress on school hygiene at Buffalo, where he appeared as secretary of the national committee on mental hygiene—an organization which he founded and of which he is the moving spirit.

A large part of the improved treatment of insanity of late years is the result of Beers' effort, and particularly of his book—probably the most remarkable work on insanity ever written.

"A Mind That Found Itself" is the autobiography of an insane man. It was written after his recovery, when every detail of his appalling experience was fresh in his mind. It related, for the first time in history, the inner life of a darkened soul, telling of the storms that swept through it and of the self that shook and failed, but remained conscious through all.

That is the lesson in this tremendous story he tells with such fidelity and power—the insane person is not a brute; his human self survives; he knows what is going on around him; he judges those who deal with him, and he is melted by kindness or enraged by injustice.

The judgment, to be sure, is warped. There were times when Beers' own melancholia made all mankind seem his enemies and when he had "delusions of grandeur" that made all things appear possible. He was sunk in apathy or rouses to incessant speech. He committed countless absurdities and even acts of violence because at the time they seemed reasonable to him.

But all the time he knew what he was doing. And kindness, patience, good air and nourishing food made him better, and brutality and hardship made him worse, and he knew it.

He is devoting his life now to teaching doctors and asylum officials what he learned, and helping other patients with sick minds to get well by an easier process than he did.

GIRL, 12, ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

Boy, 15, Knocks Acid Bottle From Her Hand—Both Burned.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 19.—Twelve-year-old Margaret Blair was frustrated in an attempt to kill herself in a park by drinking carbolic acid by James Carberry, 15 years old. When the child raised the bottle of acid to her lips, declaring she would end her life, her boy playmate grasped her hands and struggled to wrench the bottle from her. Both fell to the ground and the acid was spilled over the hands and faces of the girl and her rescuer, inflicting terrible burns. Both are in a serious condition at the Harnemann hospital. Margaret was remorseful because of her arrest on the charge of petit larceny from a store where she was employed. When she was released on probation she kept repeating to her mother: "I have disgraced you, mother. Oh, I wish I was dead."

BAD HEART JAILS A BAD BOY.

Getting Away From Officers, He Fainted and Was Caught.

South Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 19.—A weak heart that caused him to faint in his usual getaway from the officers sent to arrest him was responsible for Michael Wycovitch, the 12-year-old town incorrigible, landing in jail. Five times previously he had baffled attempts to arrest him. On a tip that the lad was at home the three officers went to the house and arrested him. Out in the street Michael lay down and refused to go. The lad's mother and sister came and took a hand in the fray. Chief Lynch received several jolts under an ear and by the use of her feet the mother succeeded in tripping the minions of the law. With the officers sent sprawling to the street, Michael took to his heels. Later he was found down an alley in a dead faint from the excitement of the fray and a bad heart.

Pruritis a Severe Form of Eczema

A Method of Home Treatment that is Very Effective.

There is probably no other remedy so well known as S. S. S. for the blood. And it is remarkably effective in that form of skin disease known as pruritis, or intense itching. The action of S. S. S. is rapid. It contains one ingredient, the active purpose of which is to stimulate the tissues to the healthy selection of its own essential nutriment. And the medical elements of this matchless blood purifier are just as essential to well-balanced health as the nutritious elements of the meats, grains, fats and sugars of our daily food. These facts are brought out in a highly interesting book on skin diseases, compiled by the medical department of the Swift Specific Co., 184 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. It is mailed free, together with a special letter of advice, to all who are struggling with a blood disease.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. to-day of your druggist. It will surprise you with its wonderful action in the blood.

Don't accept something offered you as "just as good." The only reason why anyone should not try to sell you S. S. S. is the large profit made on something cheaper from crude drugs. Beware of any attempt to persuade you to buy something in place of S. S. S.

WHITE GIRL GIVEN AWFUL "THIRD DEGREE" WHILE KNEELING BEFORE DEAD BODY OF MURERED CHINESE HUSBAND.

Remarkable Oriental Murder Mystery in Chicago Chinatown Recalls Slaying of Elsie Sigel and Starts National Probe of Chinese Crime and Opium Smuggling.

MRS. ALICE DAVIS SING AND HER DEAD CHINESE HUSBAND.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Alice Davis Sing, white wife of murdered Charlie Sing, entered a stockyards morgue in the custody of detectives.

It was the crucial moment in the most remarkable case since the killing of Elsie Sigel, with which it is strangely connected.

Mrs. Sing started as she saw the body of her slain husband lying before her, with a picture of the Annunciation at his head and a Bible at his feet. Then she sank to her knees and kissed the cold lips.

Christian training and civilization fell away and she turned all oriental.

"Charlie," she whispered, slipping into pidgin English, "you no dead, Charlie; tell me you no dead."

Then the "third degree" began. The place of mourning changed to a twentieth century inquisition. The detectives raised her and pointed accusing fingers.

"You killed him, didn't you?"

"You saw him killed?"

"You know who did it?"

"You were there, weren't you?"

She listened in apathy. At last she moaned:

"Oh, go way. I not know anything. I not know he dead. Please go way from me!"

For nine hours the pitiless probing of her soul went on, but her acquired oriental calm stood the ordeal. Then they led her to jail and charged her with the murder of her husband.

It was a strange ending for pretty Alice Davis, who started as a Christian missionary among the Chinese in Kansas City.

When the Elsie Sigel murder case was engrossing national attention and the dragnet was out for Leon Ling, her slayer, Alice volunteered to search the Kansas City Chinatown as a detective. She penetrated the secret places of that Chinatown—and never returned.

After a while she appeared in Chicago as the wife of Charlie Sing, a prosperous restauranteur, and lived with him in a quaint oriental cottage on Archer avenue.

A few nights ago Josie Modelski, maid at the Sing home, was awakened by a faint tapping on her door and a feeble voice calling, "Josie, Josie!"

She opened, and there stood Mrs. Sing, in night attire. The woman looked wild, then fell to the floor.

In the darkened hallway the maid saw signs of violence. In the parlor she stumbled over Sing, dying, his throat slit with a dagger.

Police, drawn by her shrieks, ran up and found the body in the doorway. It had been moved after she left the room.

They searched, and found only the unconscious Mrs. Sing—and bloodstained footprints and finger marks all over the house, revealing a terrific struggle. Some of the footprints, they say, showed a man's shoe, the others bore traces of bare feet.

Now the police are scouring the country for George Der Norn, a Chinese whose real name is Der Yuen. He is said to have been friendly with Mrs. Sing and there are rumors that Sing was jealous.

In Norn's quarters was found a "black book" that still further complicated the case. It bears the weird zebu calf symbol of the Hip Sing tong, and appears to be a directory of crime, covering a dozen cities.

Owing to this "black book" and other features of the case, A. Camminetti, federal commissioner of immigration, has ordered an investigation of national scope to drag forth the secrets of Chinese "underground railways," white slave traffic and opium smuggling.

FIFTEEN YEARS IN FORT WAYNE.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Hosea 14:1-9.

1 O Israel, return unto the Lord thy God; for thou hast fallen by thine iniquity.

2 Take with you words, and turn to the Lord: say unto him, Take away all iniquity, and receive us graciously: so will we render the calves of our lips.

3 Asshur shall not save us; we will not ride upon horses: neither will we say any more to the work of our hands, Ye are our gods: for in thee the fatherless findeth mercy.

4 I will heal their backsliding, I will love them freely: for mine anger is turned away from him.

5 I will be as the dew unto Israel: he shall grow as the lily, and cast forth his roots as Lebanon.

6 His branches shall spread, and his beauty shall be as the olive tree, and his smell as Lebanon.

7 They that dwell under his shadow shall return; they shall revive as the corn, and grow as the vine: the scene thereof shall be as the wine of Lebanon.

8 Ephraim shall say, What have I to do any more with idols? I have heard him, and observed him: I am like a green fir tree. From me is thy fruit found.

9 Who is wise, and he shall understand these things? prudent, and he shall know them? for the ways of the Lord are right, and the just shall walk in them: but the transgressors shall fall therein.

Curing Municipal Ills.

Let no Fort Wayne voter delude himself with the idea that it will be possible to cure municipal ills, secure governmental efficiency and reform conditions which have given cause for complaint by merely exchanging one national party for another in the control of affairs at the city hall. The disease is far too deep to be effectively reached by any such superficial treatment as that. It has been tried again and again, and invariably found wanting.

Writers, speakers and students of American municipal government have been for years thundering against this as the one vital point of weakness in our system. It has compelled the people to endure government often vicious and corrupt and almost invariably incompetent and unbusinesslike. It would be unfair to charge the men elected with entire responsibility for these conditions. To a larger degree the party system is at fault, and back of it all is the failure of the people to demand their own. They have sat complacently by and seen their city government taken over body and soul by a political organization more insistent upon entrenching itself in power than of serving the people and more devoted to perpetuating itself than to fulfilling its obligations to the public.

The fact that the people are moving in an organized, systematic and business-like effort to bring about reform in municipal conditions is the most hopeful sign in city life in America today. They are preparing to serve emphatic notice upon the political machine and the political boss that they must get out of municipal affairs and permit the adiministration of city government along non-partisan lines and upon the basis of plain, business-like efficiency. This is the significance of the present non-partisan movement in Fort Wayne and in half a score of other Indiana cities. It is not the feeble effort of a disappointed faction or of disgruntled office-seekers. It is a virile, militant movement for a government by the whole people, with partisan differences and party lines eliminated, instead of the rule of a faction. It is the dawn of a new era of municipal efficency and municipal progress for Fort Wayne.

The adminstration currency bill has passed the national house and now goes to the senate for extended debate and perhaps some tinkering. Let us hope that in framing the new financial measure with all its modern improvements the architects haven't failed to incorporate some facilities for making currency easier to get than it has been in the past.

The success of the Ohio officials in rounding up the auto bandits who operated near Bryan is extremely gratifying. Bryan, O., is too near Fort Wayne to permit the viewing of the operations of the auto-bandit industry with any sort of complacency.

Very naturally the trial of Governor Sulzer, of New York, on impeachment charges, will be invested with singular interest to the entire country. The governor may have given occasion for the finding of the charges against him, but the character of the organized opposition to him is productive of sympathy rather than censure for him in the verdict of outside opinion.

UNCLE SAM'S TRADE SCHOOL.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)

Secretary Daniel's idea of the navy as a vocational school has been copied by Secretary Garrison for the army. The battleship, as every one knows, is really a big mechanical workshop. The modern sailor is little concerned with ropes and sails, which used to be the chief instruction of the seaman. Today he may be more of a boilermaker, coppersmith, carpenter, electrician, machinist, or any one of a dozen trades than a traditional sailor. When his term is ended he has acquired a practical training in some trade that he can follow ashore with credit and profit. Mr. Garrison would add to the military instruction in the army courses of vocational training so that an enlisted man on retirement would return to civil life with a useful trade at his finger ends. The time spent in the navy or army would thus be doubly valuable, in giving the nation a trained fighting man for defense and a trained citizen.

Secretary Garrison returns to the plea for a shorter enlistment term, preferably three years, with the innovation of discharge into the reserve as soon as the man proves his efficiency. His idea, like that of General Wood, is to encourage as many enlistments as possible with the view of having the greatest number of trained men available in case of need. This seems so manifestly the proper idea for the nation like this that it must commend itself to congressional attention sooner or later. The men most desired by the army are not likely to enlist for long terms, but with a shorter term and the opportunity to profit both in the arts of war and peace enlistment would undoubtedly be more attractive.

CONGRESS AND STEEL CARS.

(New York World.)

The bill of Representative Allen, of Ohio, requiring railway passenger trains in interstate commerce to be composed wholly of steel cars after July 1, 1918, seeks to do too much.

If factories to make the enormous number of steel cars required by the bill were to be developed, there would be ruinous waste of them after the rush was over, and a cruel displacement of workmen. Few railrads could finance in so short a time an almost complete renewal of passenger rolling stock. Many passenger trains are run at slow speed upon inactive roads, or in the local service of larger system, where steel cars are little needed. There are doubts how far the steel car will solve the problem of safety in electric trains.

By all means let steel equipment be employed as fast as possible in service where the best railroad judgment agrees that it is most needed. But it will never avert death and injury by accident so long as accidents occur; and the chief causes of accident are recklessness and lack of discipline. Coroner Mix shows that on the New Haven railroad alone in thirty-two months 101 cases of improper flagging were reported, also 158 cases of engineers running past signals. In every such case human life may be endangered.

All the steel cars in the world will not insure safety against the inefficiency of an operating system demoralized by Wall street manipulations and by the neglect of managers who do not manage.

PRESS COMMENT ON NEW TARIFF BILL.

"Revolutionary Measure."

Ohio State Journal: "It is a thoroughly revolutionary measure, and if it doesn't have a serious effect upon the business of the country it will play havoc with the doctrine the country has been going on for a century."

"Epoch Making."

Birmingham Age-Herald: "This tariff will be epoch making in the democratic party, and there is good reason to believe that it will become wonderfully popular and remain on the books for long years to come."

Passage a Relief.

Cincinnati Enquirer: "The passage of the tariff bill by the senate is a relief to both its advocates and its opponents. It is now known substantially what changes the business world is to expect in its relation to the government."

"Cotton Futures."

Chicago Inter Ocean: "The Inter Ocean will wager a big red apple that this proposed tax on cotton futures never goes into effect at all—that within the next year the democratic majority will find excuses for changing the law as now to be enacted."

"Crudities of Law."

Philadelphia Ledger: "The country will not as a whole suffer greatly from even the crudities of the tariff law. The United States is too great and prosperous; its swing of life and industry is too powerful and all compelling even to pause."

"President Wilson."

Boston Post: "The passage of the tariff revision bill through the usually recalcitrant senate reveals to the full the masterful qualities of President Wilson."

People Grateful.

Washington Herald: "The people will be grateful to the democratic leaders for presenting through an honest bill a clean-cut issue between low tariff and high tariff economic policies."

Bill Hewes to Line.

Buffalo Commercial: "On the whole, the bill hews to the line of democratic promises and lowers the average rate of protective duties about 20 per cent. The country was prepared for the change and the opposition to it was largely perfunctory."

A VANISHING TYPE.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)

Timothy D. Sullivan was a type of political leader that is passing even in New York. In his heyday he was virtual ruler of the Bowery district, and a half million people. He had won his way in politics, not by the advocacy of principles, but by the practice of them. It is doubtful if he knew or cared anything about the burning issues of national, state or municipal government. He cultivated voters rather than statesmenship. The annual distribution of shoes under the Sullivan auspices was a more practical appeal to the Bowery voters than a six days' speech on the tariff or currency. His political methods were personal and direct. Doubtless the community paid many times over for the largess to the Bowery, a fact that is often forgotten in the tributes to the philanthropy of practical politicians.

"Big Tim" prided himself on never turning a deaf ear to distress and on scrupulous honesty as man to man. It is strange how often men who in their individual relations are model citizens seem incapable of applying the same rules in the larger relations to the community. It is noticed in practical politics, in big business and in many other avenues. Time was when it was thought smart to cheat in elections and to secure rebates in business. But with the awakening of the past few years that has changed. The practical politician now realizes that he must make an appeal to the public, that personal generosity and charity no longer suffice to cover a multitude of communal sins. It is unlikely that even Tammany can produce a successor to "Big Tim."

WHEN THERE IS NOTHING TO EAT.

(New York World.)

According to Prof. Dickson, of Edinburgh, whose address before the British association "created a sensation," the failure of the wheat acreage to keep pace with the increase of population will bring humanity "face to face with starvation within the century." And according to Dr. Kellogg, who addressed the American Public Health association at Colorado Springs, "the birth rate is decreasing in a manner that will bring it to the vanishing point in 2012."

As the dates for these dire contingencies coincide, it is obvious that the one will offset the other. Everybody having perished by that time there will be no new mouths to feed and no need of wheat or any other kind of food. You pay your money and take your choice of theories.

As respects the wheat supply, this year's American crop of three-quarters of a billion bushels for about 95,000,000 people compares with the 1893 crop of 396,000,00 bushels for approximately 65,000,000 people, and holds out the promise of enough bread to go around for a long time to come, in this country at least. Throughout the world the supply of wheat for a quarter of a century past has increased proportionately with population, if not in excess of it.

But are not alarmist echoes of Malthus out of place at this day? Mankind has never been so well and bountifully fed as now, a century after the enunciation by Malthus of his theory of the dread consequences to ensue from the "tendency of population to increase faster than the means of subsistence." Doubtless the resourcefulness of society will provide plenty of food for the future, assuming, of course, that the race does not become extinct meantime by the cessation of births.

COUNCIL MAY BE CALLED TO ACT

That Body to Rule on the Widening and Paving of Part of Baker Street.

THE MUNICIPAL NEWS

As was the case on Webster street, from Jefferson to Baker, the city council may have to pass an ordinance ordering the widening and paving of Baker street, from Calhoun street to Webster, if that proposed improvement is made. The board of works has under consideration a declaratory resolution to widen the roadway on that street from twenty-eight to forty feet by setting the curb back six feet on each side. The purpose is to afford greater facilities for the increased traffic that will ensue by reason of the new Pennsylvania station on Baker street and the opening of Harrison street under the tracks.

The resolution came before the board last night and sixteen of the twenty resident property owners affected were represented on a remonstrance against the improvement. Attorney Harry Ginty, speaking for the remonstrants, said that the improvement was not now necessary and could proceed with it in later years when the necessity was pressing.

The board believes the improvement imperative and will try to impress the property owners with the argument that widening of the street will cost each property owner little while it will greatly increase the value of the property. The estimate of the cost is about $65 for each fifty foot lot. The brick pavement already down will not be disturbed and new pavement will be laid only on the strips added to the roadway. It is believed that if the remonstrance is persisted in that the council will pass an ordinance to mandate the improvement for "the public welfare," as was done on Webster street a few weeks ago.

Where Remonstrance Was Effective.

Property owners made effective remonstrance against the following proposed improvements: Paving of the alley between Wayne and Washington streets, Monroe to Hanna; paving of alley between Washington and Jefferson streets, Monroe to Hanna, and paving the alley between Suttenfield and Woodland avenue, Clinton to the alley west, and all action on the three resolutions was rescinded.

The board took under advisement until next Monday afternoon the matter of constructing a sidewalk on the south side of Leith street from Calhoun to Lafayette.

Resolutions for the following improvements were confirmed: Paving the alley between Berry and Wayne, Lafayette to Monroe; paving the alley between Washington and Wayne, Ewing to Fairfield; sidewalks on both sides of Rumsey avenue, Richardson to High; sidewalks on west side of Koch street, alley south of Greenlawn avenue to State boulevard; sewer in the alley between Stophlet and Taylor, Riedmiller to Phenie; sewer in alley north of Wall street, from the brick sewer on Nelson street to lot No. 152, Swinney's addition, extended, and vacating the alley south of Washington street, from Grant to Wabash.

Sidewalk Contracts Awarded.

Bids were received on twelve sidewalk contracts and for award on Organ avenue, Indiana to Beaver, the Moellering Construction company and Grosjean Brothers drew cuts, each having bid 80 cents. Grosjean Brothers were lucky in the drawing. The board took under advisement the bids of the Moellering company for sidewalks on both sides of Anderson avenue, Spy Run avenue to the third alley east, at $1.10, and for sidewalks on the south side of Wayne street, Calhoun to Clinton, at $1.82.

The board also took under advisement until next Monday the objection of the Monroe street property owners to the laying of sidewalks on both sides of the street from Berry to Washington, the protest being based on the want of provision in the plans for a crossing from the east side of the street to the north side of Berry. Grosjean Brothers were low in their bid of 70 cents.

Other sidewalk contracts were awarded as follows: West side of Beaver avenue, Packard to Dayton, Moellering Construction company, 77 cents per lineal foot; west side of Clinton, alley north of Superior to St. Mary's river, Grosjean, 91 cents; north side of Creighton avenue, Lafayette to Warsaw, Moellering, 80 cents; north side of Dayton avenue, Indiana to Beaver, Moellering, 97 cents; east side of Delta boulevard, Columbia to Lake, Grosjean, 80 cents; west side of Lillie street, Lahmeyer to Zauner's subdivision, Moellering, 85 cents; south side of Oak, Division to Ohio, Grosjean, 74½ cents; south side of Suttenfield, Calhoun to Lafayette, Grosjean, 94 cents.

A petition was received asking the paving of Grant avenue, from Wayne street to Maumee avenue. A remonstrance was filed against the opening of Requette street, from Runnion to the alley west, a petition for which was introduced some time ago.

WABASH DEPOT PLANS MODIFIED.

Stairways Will Be Enclosed, But Central Entrance Not Provided.

Engineer Curtis, of the Wabash railroad has brought to Fort Wayne the modified plans of the company for its new passenger station here and they will be submitted to the board of works and Building Inspector Philip Wyss tomorrow. The modified plans provide for enclosure of the entrances at either end of the structure and in such wise as to add something to its architectural character. The suggestion that a central main entrance from Grand street be provided is not taken note of in the revised plans, but Engineer Curtis indicated that later something along that line might be done. The board and building inspector will no doubt approve the plans and issue a building permit.

WILL HURRY CURBING ALONG.

Member Lennon of Board of Works Makes Trip to Cleveland.

Edward J. Lennon, of the board of public works, made a trip to Cleveland yesterday to spur up the quarry companies that furnish the limestone curbing for paved streets in Fort Wayne. Street paving work has been much delayed lately by the tardiness of shipments of curbing and with a lot of new work ready to be started on contracts awarded Monday the board wants to be sure that local contractors will have materials with which to proceed before the streets are torn up. The quarry people promised Mr. Lennon to do their best and disclosed that already eleven carloads of curbing are now in transit. One car arrived yesterday and two came in today. Others are expected to come in raipdly. The representative of the city was assured that Fort Wayne would be taken care of.

NEW CASE OF DIPHTHERIA.

Up to 3 o'clock this afternoon but one new case of diphtheria had been reported to the health department since yesterday. The patient is Pauline Oswalt, aged 7, of 1124 Curtis street. Dr. Eric Crull, secretary of the board of health, stated today that there was no occasion for alarm that an epidemic was imminent, though emphasized the need of unremitting vigilance by teachers and parents in reporting cases of sore throat.

NEW CAUSE FOR THAW'S WORRY.

Missed Auto Ride Now Chief Concern of Matteawan Fugitive.

Concord, N. H., Sept. 19.—An overcast sky which indicated the probability that he would be denied a promised automobile ride, appeared to be Harry K. Thaw's chief concern this morning. Sheriff Drew told him, however, that if the storm kept the crowd of curious under cover he would be permitted to visit the state house and other public buildings.

The usual large amount of mail was awaiting Thaw and newspapers were piled high on his table when he appeared for breakfast. The published accounts of his own case were read as closely as ever.

Counsel continued today their preparation of the case to be submitted on Thaw's behalf to Governor Felker at the extradition hearing next Tuesday.

WESTERN UNION SUED FOR DAMAGE

Failure to Make a Prompt Delivery of Message is Alleged.

NEWS OF THE COURTS

Peter Boegli has brought suit against the Western Union Telegraph company in the circuit court, demanding $200 damage and the statutory penalty for failing in prompt delivery of a message. The plaintiff had matters in court in Chicago and the Lafayette Mercantile agency in that city on June 18, last, telegraphed Arthur W. Parry, Boegli's Fort Wayne attorney, to have his witnesses at the Chicago office at 8 o'clock the following morning. The message was filed about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, was received in Fort Wayne about an hour later and was delivered to Parry at 5:30 the following morning. The suit was called and postponed in the Chicago court and Boegli placed under considerable expense, according to the complaint. He wants damages. A statutory penalty attaches to failure by telegraph companies to make delivery of messages with reasonable promptitude.

Declare Transfer Fraudulent.

In the circuit court Frances E. Bowman has filed suit against John A. Hindman and his wife, Ida M. Hindman, and the Union Central Life Insurance company to set aside as illegal and fraudulent the conveyance by the plaintiff to the defendant, Hindman, of a farm of 167 acres—160 acres in Allen county and the balance in Wells county. The complaint sets forth that the defendant represented to the plaintiff that in order to save her land from passing from her by foreclosure of mortgage held by the life insurance company, it would be necessary to transfer it to him. This was done by Mrs. Bowman and her children January 5, 1911. January 31, 1911, the defendant and his wife executed to the life insurance company a mortgage on the land for $6,000, paid off the old mortgage and kept $1,000 for their own uses, according to the complaint. It is then set out that the defendants are trying to sell the land, claiming to own it in fee simple. The farm is alleged to be worth $20,000.

Receiver is Appointed.

Judge Yaple in the superior court today appointed the German-American Trust company receiver for the Grabill Sanitary Garbage Can company. The concern was organized by Charles A. Bliss, promoter, and factory buildings were erected in Grabill, but no manufacturing was ever done, the promoter disposing of his stock and leaving. The buildings are deteriorating in value and the stockholders went the property disposed of in order to save what they can. The receiver is appointed for this purpose.

Mother Is Given $812.50 Judgment.

The circuit jury before whom was tried the case of Mrs. Margaret Campbell against the Hedekin Land and Improvement company for $10,000 damages for the death of her son, who was asphyxiated in the Hedekin house here nearly a year ago, today brought in a verdict awarding the plaintiff damages in the sum of $812.50.

A superior court jury gave Harry Dial, the real estate agent, a judgment of $1 in his suit against Dan Clemens for $350 claimed as commission for negotiating the purchase of a farm for the defendant.

This is "The Widow"—Man Who Operates It is Shunned by Most Folks.

This machine is known in France as "the widow," and the man who is shown in the photograph is its operator. His name is Diebler and his job is one that causes him to avoid most human beings. He seldom talks to people, and, in fact, most people don't want to talk to him. "The widow," in truth, is the guillotine, on which murderers are killed in France, and Diebler is the public executioner. He has ended the lives of over 200 persons and his father had the job before him. He carries his machine all over France, puts it up by himself, does his killing and then goes on to the next prison. His salary is $100 a month.

Society

With all the charm of beautiful decorations of autumn's favorite color, yellow, and other arrangements equally pleasing, Miss Ruth Gumpper, of West Wayne street, entertained this afternoon in honor of Miss Grace Griswold, who is to be an October bride. The dozen young women invited took their sewing and mysterious packages wrapped in tissue paper which were showered on Miss Griswold. The gifts were utensils for her kitchen when she goes to housekeeping. The diningroom at supper time was exceedingly attractive. The table had a center basket of black-eyed yellow daisies and yellow candles stood in holders tied with big fluffy bows of yellow tulle. The place cards were pictures of yellow and white daisies and yellow cups held nuts. Miss Griswold found a corsage bouquet of yellow snapdragon blossoms at her place and yellow ribbons holding the flowers emphasized the color scheme of the party which was one of the prettiest of the season.

Miss Helen Essig was the honor guest last evening at a merry and pretty party given by Miss Avajean Kincade, of State street. Miss Essig will leave soon for California to be gone for some months. A surprise to the happy company of young people was the appearance of the hostess' brother, Alex, who had been for some time in Texas and New Mexico. Mr. Kincade's home coming was unknown to the young people and he remained in another part of the house until the guests had all arrived. Games and refreshments were enjoyed.

Welchonce—Hoppel.

A pretty wedding took place on Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Stephenson, of High street, in the marriage of their cousin, Miss Alice Hoppel, to Mr. Charles Welchonce. The Rev. A. J. Folsom officiated at the marriage service at 8 o'clock, in the presence of intimate friends. Miss Lucile House was bridesmaid and Mr. John Stephenson stood up with the groom. The bride was prettily dressed in a white satin gown trimmed with lace and she wore a veil held to her hair with swansonia blossoms. Miss House wore a lavender and white gown and carried pale pink carnations. The bride's bouquet was of bride roses. Miss Gertrude Helling played the wedding music. Two children, relatives of the bride, dressed in white were ribbon bearers and marked the pathway for the bride and her maid of honor. The house was tastefully decorated in green and white with ferns, roses and carnations. This morning the bride and groom left on an eastern trip and will visit several places in Ohio. For traveling the bride wore a blue tailored cloth suit with hat to match. The bride is an orphan and has made her home for some time with her cousins here. Mr. Welchonce is a carpenter. He has a home ready for his bride in Wildwood avenue and they will go to housekeeping as soon as they return home.

NEWPORT'S LEADER AND GRAND DUKE WHO WAS HER GUEST.

CZAR'S COUSIN AN D MRS. JOHN ASTOR.

The Grand Duke Alexander Michaelovitch, brother-in-law and cousin to the czar of Russia, and Mrs. John Astor, his American hostess, become the most interesting figures at the Newport house show, where the elite of the country gathered in the crowning fete of a most successful season. There was quite a struggle among Newporters for the honor of entertaining the grand duke, and it is considered a big feather in Mrs. Astor's cap to have landed such a distinguished guest.

AT THE TEMPLE

The best all around bill of the season at the Temple theater is on just now. It begins with Leach and Wallin, two young women of iron jaws, who give not only a good performance, but include some astonishing things on a slack wire, one holding the other only with her teeth. Then comes Lawrence and Tanner in about the oddest line of talk you have heard and while for a second or so you think you have heard all there can be thought of to say about "In Fly Time," the name of their piece, the next moment you are wondering how in the world it is going to come out. And when it does come out there is a roar of laughter and applause.

Talk about roars of laughter, though, see the sketch called "Help Wanted." William Edmonds and company will put it on. It is capital. It has the merit of something new and something different and Mr. Edmonds does a bit of high class acting just before the end that in itself is worth while seeing. The act is a laugher and it has considerable more than that to make it interesting. It makes a big hit.

Donovan and Arnold are certainly the kind of entertainers one wants to see several times. They have a line of nonsense that is funny, it presents the unexpected and just makes people sit up and listen with both ears for fear of losing a bit of the fun. Besides there is some good singing of the amusing kind and both entertainers have a plenty of the magnetic quality that for some people spells success before the footlights without much matter what they say or do. Anyway the act is well named, "All Mixed Up." No one will repeat much of it after he leaves the theater, for he has been too busy laughing to remember it.

And as if all this were not enough the bill ends with that well known combination of tricks and pantomime juggling that Leon and Adeline Sisters always present. They are clever and the act is one swift go all the time.

The motion pictures are exceptionally good and orchestra leader Ed Dicey has even a bit to do in one of the acts, besides keeping his men playing.

AT THE EMPRESS

The amatuer show at the Empress theater tonight, following the regular performance, will bring a list of half dozen acts, entirely new to patrons of the Friday night shows. There have been numerous requests during the week for the privilege of taking part and the amatuer performers will include singers, dancers and comedians. The contest should prove one of the most interesting ever held, for besides developing some amatuers of ability, it will also doubtless bring the never failing fellows who unconsciously make fun. Saturday two matinees will be given, the first starting at 2 o'clock and the second at 3:30. There will be five cent seats for the little folks at either performance and following each show a stage reception will be held, so that the youngsters may go on the stage and meet "Prince Floro," the wonderful educated chimpanzee. The current bill is one of the most attractive of the year.

AT THE JEFFERSON

Two good pictures are showing at the Jefferson. One, an Imp, "The Shells," with Wm. Shay in the leading part, is an exceptionally good story. The other photoplay is "Western Love," a red blood love story with a large assortment of thrills. Extra tonight is Ralph Patterson, basso, and Rae Collins, soprano, Saturday comes a two-reel feature, "A Bride from the Sea." Booked for an early showing is Helen Gardner in a four-reel production, "The Wife of Cain."

Compaare our work with that done by others and you can easily recognize the "Quality" of our method. Troy Dry Cleaning Co. Phone 6003.—Adv.

HELD RECEPTION IN NEW SHOP.

It would be difficult for anyone to suggest anything prettier or in better taste than the new corset shop Madame Catherine has opened, or rather the new quarters into which she has moved at 115 West Wayne street. Thursday afternoon Madame Catherine held an opening, a sort of reception, and to have seen the women, young and not young, and still older call, and to have heard their exclamations of pleasure over the prettiness of everything from the pink roses in the carpeted windows to the bows and other dainty "fixings" of the silk corsets shown in the fitting booths, would have been convincing even to a man. The reception room with brown furnishings and decorations of flowers and branches of russet oak, looked like a peep into a house and the portieres and draperies bespoke the privacy of each room. There was music by a victrola operated by someone who knew how the beautiful records were played. Altogether it was a most attractive spot. Madame Catherine and her assistant, Miss Wells, received the callers.

The suit you laid away in the spring will be suitable for wear again this fall if cleaned by our "Quality" process. Phone 6003. Troy Dry Cleaning Co.—Adv.

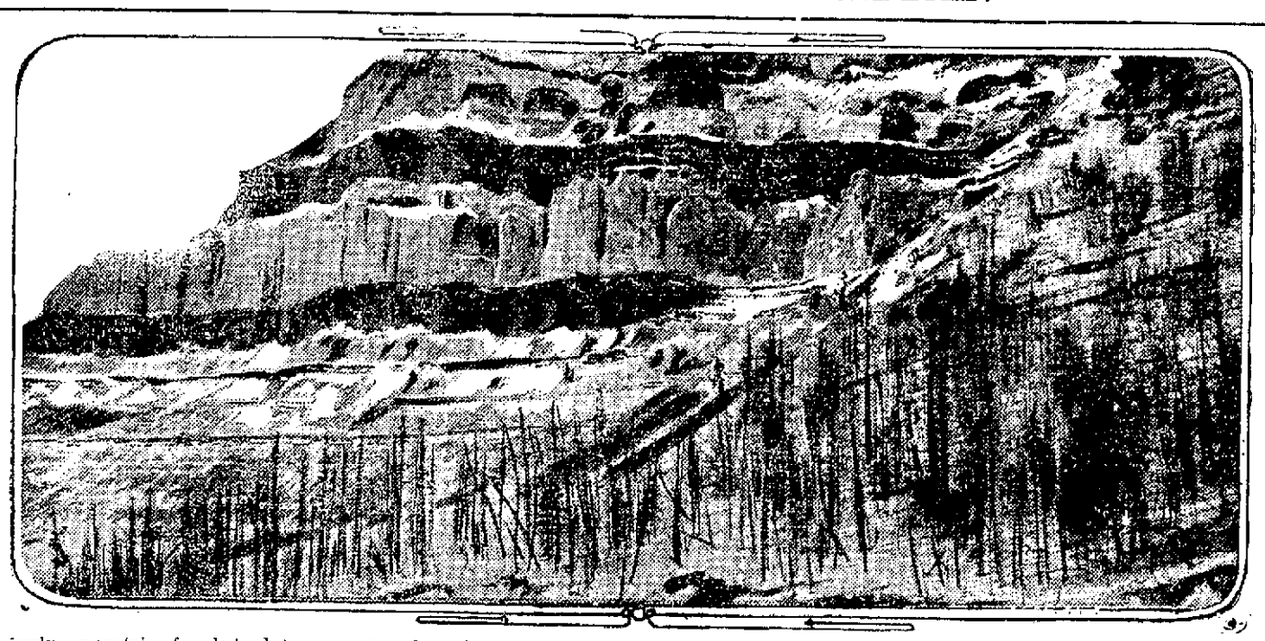
TEN BILLION TONS OF COAL ALL IN ONE LUMP.



It is simply a mountain of coal standing right out so you can see it.

And it runs away back and away down in the earth, so that there's millions and millions more tons that you can't see—yet.

This mountain of coal is up in Alaska.

It is this coal which, if congress passes the Poindexter bill, or some other measure which will serve to satisfactorily open up the rich northern empire, will be mined by Uncle Sam, and brought to the United States and sold at prices that will mean a big saving to the consumers.

This photograph shows an outcropping of coal in the Nenana river field.

It is only seventy miles from Fairbanks, and is close to the route of the suggested railroad through the Copper River valley, one of the routes which will be considered if a government railroad is constructed.

And listen. The aggregate thickness of this great vein of coal, protruding boldly above teh surface, where one may hack it to pieces and carry it away, is 231 feet.

Even the trees in the foreground of the picture, which look at first glance like shrubbery, but which are fifty and sixty feet high, are drafted in the shadow of this great peak of virgin coal.

The recent government report on the Nenana field gives some astounding figures.

In a careful summary it estimates the total volume of coal in an area of 122 square miles in the Nenana region at ten billion tons.

And it remarks that this may only be one-third of the actual amount.

EVANSVILLE MAY NOT LAND MONEY

Charge is Made That Miller Belonged to Pensacola Team.

NO RIGHT TO PLAY

While Outfielder Miller was drafted by the St. Louis Browns from the Evansville club the chances are that the Pensacola club of the Cotton States league will get the money for the player and that the Evansville owners and Miller will be fined for violating a ruling of the national commission.

Miller was a member of the Pensacola team in the Cotton States league along with Benny Jewell, who also played a few games with the Evansville team. When the Cotton States league closed in August he went to the Traverse City team of the Michigan State league and was ordered to quit by the president because of the ruling of the national commission saying that a player cannot play in another league after finishing the season in one.

When Miller left Traverse City he immediately hooked up with the Evansville band and finished the season with the Evas despite all the ruling of the national commission.

Miller played thirty-three games with the Evansville team and finished the season with a batting average of .373. He was at ba 0142 times and made 53 hits. He proved to be a fast man on the paths, stealing sixteen bases during his short stay with Evansville. The Browns are getting a good man in Miller, but the wrong club is getting the money for him, as under all the rules governing play in organized baseball he was barred from participating in a single Central league game this season.

HUFF TO GIVE UP SCOUTING.

Offered $6,000 to Devote Entire Attention to Illinois Athletics.

Urbana, Ill., Sept. 19.—George Huff, big league scout for more than a decade, more than likely has spent his last summer on the trail of the "future greats." Huff has just returned from his scouting trip for Cleveland to find that the board of trustees of the University of Illinois wants him to terminate his association with organized baseball.

"We will raise your salary if you will devote your entire time to university athletics," was the proposition of the trustees, who suited the action to the word by tendering the big coach a pay slip calling for $6,000 a year.

The idea is said to have been agreeable to Director Huff, who has never been in love with the summer ordeal, especially since it took him away from his family. The salary tendered him is the equal of that received by any member of the faculty except President James.

TIME FLIES; REMEMBER DEATH

Old Adages as Applied to Modern Science.

The old religious recluse sat in his hermit cell with a skull before him in meditation and contemplated death. Somber thoughts, these, but so he spent his time preparing for the inevitable, so that death in reality came not any too soon for him, for he had no other end in view. How different it is today, and still how similar! We are despondent and diseased and in our woe we meditate on what? The future and what is in store for us, and usually the thoughts are morbid. But again let us look back, and then we see why we want to live and think of more pleasant things, but with disease and pain continuously hampering us we cannot look on the silver linings. Here again another old adage applies. If at first you don't succeed, etc. Don't think because one man or maybe two doctors have told you your case is hopeless that all hope must be given up. Remember, one man does not know it all, and something new is being discovered and exploited each day, and especially is this true of the science of medicine. But in order to attain these real benefits the mind must first be made well. It must be freed from its sordid thoughts of death and continual suffering; in other words, you must not give up hoping, and you must at least give the opportunity a chance when said opportunity raps at your door. This condition of mind alone, when once obtained, is sufficient to work wonders, as is frequently proven by the so-called faith cures and Christian Scientists. But faith alone will not stop pain nor cure these long-standing chronic diseases to which man and woman are so frequently subjected. But hearken to opportunity in the role of the United Specialists. They do not claim to be miracle workers nor do they claim to know everything, but they do claim to be able to cure many of the so-called incurable diseases of long standing and which have baffled the medical men who have not given their time and money to the latest and most improved scientific methods, as have these United Specialists. No one man nor two men examine you, but your case is gone over thoroughly by a number of competent men, who each in his own line is an expert, and then the result of the examinations of these doctors is taken and the treatment decided on, provided you can be cured. If not, you are told, and your case is rejected, because the policy of the United Specialists is to make their results bring them patients. They have numerous testimonials on file and have allowed a number to be printed, which is conclusive evidence that they are successful times without number, where others have failed. They make no charge for their examinations, nor do they charge exorbitant fees that will beggar a person, in order to get their treatment, but they charge a fair, reasonable fee, and you get what you have hoped for—a permanent cure.

Their office is located at 124 East Washington street, and they can be interviewed at any time during their office hours, which are 9 to 12, 1 to 5, 7 to 8. Sundays, 9 to 12 only.—Adv.

BID GOODBYE TO THE MILE TRACK

Good Weather for Last Day of Harness Racing at the Fair.

COURSE IS VERY FAST

There was a good sized crowd at the Driving park this afternoon to watch the last card of light harness racing on the famous old mile course and there were among the horsemen and spectators men who had grown up with the course and who were mighty sorry to see the decline of the racing game to a point where it justified the abandonment of the property and its conversion to building lots

Having been thoroughly worked out for the card of Thursday afternoon and thoroughly dried by the wind and sunshine, the track was lightning fast and some of the horses were expected to hand up some good marks in smashing laps for the final card,

There was, of course, the possibility that the card might not be finished before dark as postponements had forced the management to crowd a lot of racing into the Friday mill and in that event there may be some heats run off tomorrow.

With veteran Mat Stevens driving King B. Arlington, the Detroit entry won the 2:11 pace, regarded as the feature of the Thursday card, and Fort Wayne claimed a special distinction as both the winner, owner and driver belong to this city. Bell Pointer was the race maker in the event and finished second in each of the three heats.

The race went to King Arlington in straight heats and the best time was in the first when the big bay gelding negotiated the mile in 2:09¾.

In the opening event of the card Allen county went into the limelight again when Pate, an Edgerton horse, owned and driven by R. J. Smith, finished first in each heat, forced out every time by Argot Girl. As in the big race the best time was made in the first heat.

Trixy Parole, F. J. Perry's bay mare, gave Diaz a hard brush for the money in the 2:21 trot after finishing seventh in the first heat. The summaries follow:

RILEY TO SIOUX CITY.

Former Grand Rapids Pitcher Sold by the Club at Kansas City.

Springfield, O., Sept. 19.—Pitcher Bill Riley, native son, has been released by the Kansas City club to Sioux City of the Western league.

Riley learned to play ball on the Murray street diamond, about where Washington park is now located. He moved with his parents to Lima, O., and from that city got his start in professional ball.

Local fans will remember him for he was farmed by Kansas City to Canton two years ago and pitched several games here that year. He was with Grand Rapids the first part of the past season.

Riley was the leading twirler for the Black Sox and was going so good that Kansas City recalled him in June. proves its merits.

LEACH HAS BEEN GREAT HELP TO EVERS IN HANDLING THE CUBS DURING THE PRESENT SEASON.

JOHNNY EVERS.

TOMMY LEACH.

Tommy Leach deserves more credit than any of the other members of the Cub team except Manager Evers for the good showing of the team this year. Without the service of the veteran little centerfielder the chances are that Chicago would have had a hard time getting into the first division at all.

He has been the most consistent hitter on the team, and his wallops have come in mighty handy just when the other fellows on the team were having a slump in that direction. The failure of Heine Zimmerman to live up to his record of last year cost the Cubs many a game, for he has failed in the pinches time and again this summer when a little single would have been good for one or more runs.

The grand showing made by Leach should entitle him to a berth on the Chicago team for an indefinite time. As long as he can deliver the hits as he has been doing this year, he will be a desirable member of any team.

His hitting is not all, either. He has made some of the most sensational catches in the outfield that have ever been made in Chicago. Time and again his running catches have electrified the crowd when there were runners waiting on the bags ready to score if he did not gather in the long drive.

There is only a difference of about 50 points in the batting averages of the great Heine, but the 50 points do not signify the difference in his work from last year. He has been out of the game many days during the season, at times when his presence was greatly needed. He has been able to keep his average well up in the list because he has gathered in hits at times when it made little difference whether he hit safely or not.

He has fallen down more times in the pinches this year than he did last year, and there is where he dropped most of the 50 points. The failure of Heine and Evers to get along well has been one of the big causes for the slump.

In the spring there were frequent clashes between the two stars and there is no doubt that the indifference of Zim after these clashes caused him to let down in his work.

The spirit of the team at the present time is the best it has been all summer, and if Evers can start next spring where he leaves off this year there is good reason to believe he will have his team up in the battle from start to finish.

Recently the little manager remarked that if he had had his men going all year as they are going at the present time the season's campaign would have won the pennant in a walk. It has been a tough proposition for Evers to solve this year, but he has come through with colors flying.

He has had many fights on his hands he need not have had if he had been built along different lines, but he is not gifted with diplomatic instincts and, of course, had to fight out his battles along the lines with which he was familiar.

He is getting the work out of his men now that he should have had in the spring.

The players are regarding him in a different light than they did. At first it was hard for his old teammates to accept him as their superior. He was not taken seriously, and as a result there was many a run-in over plays that have cost heavily in games.

SLEAR RAN GOOD SECOND.

Old Fort Wayne Player Contestant in Fast Umpiring in Michigan League.

Jackson, Mich., Sept. 19.—Umpire "Bull" Green won the prize offered by the Southern Michigan league to the umpire who made the best average time handling the games on the circuit.

Green's average time for a full nine inning game was 1:50:57.

The race between Green and Slear was close for a while, but the final figures show Slear to be nearly a full four minutes behind the leader. Slear's time for a nine inning game is 1:54:48.

Blake and Beal finished well in the rear, being about eight minutes a game behind Green. Blake's time for a nine inning game was 1:57:37 and Beal's time was 1:57:07.

Green has the honor of having handled the fastest game in the league this season, running off an eight and a half inning game in 1:12.

Both Slear and Beal officiated in games that lasted 2:42, the longest time occupied by games during the season.

STEAM ROLLER LOSES OUT.

Tackles a Locomotive and Is Fit Only for Scrap Heap.

South Haven, Mich., Sept. 19.—The steam roller as a symbol of a political juggernaut has been tossed into the discard. The big city steam roller, which heretofore has flattened with success everything opposed to it, attempted to flatten out a big locomotive on the Fruit Belt railway. William Wenban, the steam roller operator, lays his plight to jealousy of the locomotive. The onset was on the track and the impact was thunderous. The steam roller was wrecked and so was the engine. Wenban leaped to safety after putting his machine in the best aggressive position. The locomotive was hauled off, but city employes still are scooping up pieces of the steam roller from the landscape.

OPEN WOODS HIS BARROOM.

Macon, Mo., Sept. 19.—Sheriff Holvey arrested an alleged Italian bootlegger, Luisanna Larzerino, who was runing an establishment in the woods near mine No. 61. The dealer hung a pit lamp on a bush so his cus' mers could find him. He kept his stock in an ice cream freezer. The trees formed his building.

The sheriff fou l two men coming along the road with beer. Asked where they go it, they pointed to the pit light twinkling in the darkness. The prisoner offered to pay a few dollars in settlement. He was taken to jail.

"I've caught bootleggers in cellars, old shanties and most every place," said Sheriff Holvey, "but never before did I light on one who took all outdoors for his place of business."

AUTO POLO WILL BE BIG FEATURE

Satisfies Craving for Sport Where Players Court Death.

IS BRAN NEW GAME

Polo, which has been presented to the public in as many different forms as cold storage eggs are generally fed to dwellers in boarding houses, has reached its zenith in the automobile style of play unless some enterprising promoter frames a brand in which big railroad locomotives can be used.

Ernie Morross, in charge of the Bob Burman appearance in the races and speed exhibition at the Driving park tomorrow in connection with the Fort Wayne fair, calls it the undertaker's delight, and this is pretty strong language coming from a man who has been for several years the power behind a driver who is trying continually to negotiate a mile in a traction less than nothing.

In addition to the races the game will be played on the track in front of the grandstand tomorrow afternoon and four machines will be engaged in play. The players are armed with mallets and they attempt to drive a big ball between two goal posts as in other kinds of polo and one machine will be engaged for each side in the attack while the other will be back in the trenches defending its position.

Each of the machines is equipped with a set of hoops that extend in a semi-circle above the players. These are for the purpose of protecting drivers and players who nthe autos turn over, because they spill now and then in the game but are light and easily righted.

However, a turned over machine gets no more consideration in the game than a fallen player in football or a clumsy base runner lying prone on the paths of a baseball diamond and it is therefore to the advantage of the opposing machine to have an adversary hors du combat, if that term applies to the game.

The combination to be put on here is the the same that was staged at the Minnesota and Wisconsin state fairs and this indicates that it must have some merit as big amusement enterprises of that kind would hardly fall for anything but the best. The rules call for three periods, and Bob Burman appears in the game.

He is not required to do this under his contract with the Moross booking department, but this great rider simply likes dangerous amusement and he voluntarily enters in this game. There is a referee in the game and his principal duties are to keep out of the way of any driver that he may penalize. A ball player cannot throw a ball at any umpire without being detected but an auto driver has some excuse for running down a referee who is against him. Precautions have been taken to prevent slugging and other violations of the rule.

This brand of polo is supplied to satisfy an appetite for death-inviting amusement that the public is apparently leaning to. The regular schedule is a thrill a minute and the management promises to follow closed to this.

SOUTH BEND MAY LAND IN LEAGUE

Talk of Including City in New Class D Organization.

GARY AFTER FUNDS

South Bend., Ind., Sept. 19.—Fans at Gary have started a movement having for its object the formation of a class D baseball league in northern Indiana. Several strong followers of the game are interested in the project and they will obtain the feeling of fans in cities in this part of the state with a view of forming an organization. According to the present intentions besides Gary, South Bend, Michigan City, Elkhart, Warsaw, Laporte and Valparaiso are the prospective candidates for membership in the proposed league and it is expected a committee will visit baseball followers in each of these cities.

Gary will have a team in the league and funds are now being raised to purchase a tract of land where a ball park may be located.

Unlike the northern Indiana league of last season, games will be played every day in the week and not only on Sunday. It is probable that a team with a salary limit of $850 will be organized in each city where a team is to be located.

C. L. Armstrong, of Gary, is one of the promoters of the movement and is now communicating with prominent baseball men in other cities. It is believed that enough supporters can be found in each city to make the league a paying proposition.

GOT 13,000 VOLTS OF ELECTRICITY

Delphos Man Receives Tremendous Shock Through His Body But Gets Up and Walks Home.

Delphos, Ohio, Sept. 19. -P. J. Backus, an employe of the Delphos Electric Light and Power company, had a narrow escape from instant death when he received a tremendous electric shock from the high tension wires at the plant, and that he was not instantly killed is little short of miraculous.

Mr. Backus is employed at the plant as night engineer and at the time was engaged in wiping dust from the insulators on the lightning arresters, when his right hand came in contact with the high tension wire, which carries 13,000 volts of electricity. He was knocked down and landed against the large generator, immediately back of him, only a few feet away. Although he was dazed for a short time, he was not rendered unconscious and was able to walk to his home a short time later.

The voltage entered his right hand and came out of his left side near the hip. His right hand was badly burned and a hole was burned in his left side, where the electric fluid left his body. His clothing was also burned by the electric current. When his hand came in contact with the high tension wire he was knocked from it instantly. Had he taken hold of the wire, nothing could have saved him from instant death.

While Mr. Backus is suffering slightly from the burns he received and is somewhat sore as a result of the heavy fall, there apparently will be no serious effects.

He may be considered very lucky in that he was not instantly killed, as the cases on record in which a person has received a voltage of the force which he withstood without producing death are very rare.

AUBURN WOMAN DIES.

Auburn, Ind., Sept. 19.—Miss Lovina Magginis, aged 66 years, is dead here at the home of her brother, Elias Magginnis, after an illness that had its beginning the latter part of May, this year. Death was the result of a tumorous growth of the liver. Miss Magginnis was born on the old Magginis homestead, two and one-half miles from Auburn, in Jackson township. She spent practically her entire life in DeKalb county. She is survived by the following brothers: Jacob Magginis, of Jackson township; Elias Magginis, of Auburn, and William Magginis, who resides in Jackson township.

TWO FALL FROM BARN ROOF.

Columbia City, Ind., Sept. 19.—Harley Keiser, a son of John Keiser, west of Pierceton, who has been employed this summer as a farm hand by Ed Foster, on the Will Ream farm west of the city, took a bad tumble, as did his employer, off the roof of a barn which they were preparing to reshingle. They were taking some of the sheeting off the roof, when a section of it pulled off precipitating them to the ground, a distance of fifteen feet. When the timbers struck, their fall was partly broken by an old log heap, but both men were injured. Keiser had a gash cut in his forehead, his nose was fractured, and a big nail narrowly missed entering his eye. Foster sustained a fractured right ankle, striking the log heap with terrific force.

WERE MARRIED IN ALLEN COUNTY

Delphos, Ohio, Sept. 19.—Gurnsey E. Miller, of Delphos, has filed an unusual divorce petition in the Allen county courts in which he claims that his wife, Effie B. Miller, has been absent for more than nine years and that he does not know whether she is living or dead. They were married in Allen county, Indiana, more than twenty-eight years ago. The husband avers that if Mrs. Miller is still living he has no idea as to her whereabouts. They have no living children.

HARTFORD CITY IS AFTER THE FRATS

One Pupil Expelled and Nine Suspended from the High School and More Are on the List.

Hartford City, Ind., Sept. 19.—One student was expelled and nine others, one a girl, have been suspended from the high school for affiliating with fraternities and sororities, and as many or more, including a number of girls, face the same penalty it is said as the result of evidence given the faculty by those already dismissed.

Clark Stewart was expelled. He admitted holding membership in the Phi Delta Kappa fraternity. All the others, with the exception of one, were suspended for three weeks for visiting various club rooms. Paul Brickley, suspended last year, was let out for six weeks for repeating the offense of visiting a frat room. Others dismissed were Miss Mary Willman, Howard Beebe, Walter Monfort, Mark Fees, William Rosenbaum, James Harley, Jay Palmer, Tim Reidy, Reidy.

Some of the members suspended are said to have furnished the faculty with the names of many other high school girls and boys who have been guilty of affiliating with secret societies in violation of the state law and the edict of the school authorities. These cases are being investigated and if the evidence warrants there will be a wholesale dismissal There are said to be sixteen more students who face suspension.

LIGHTNING SHOCKS BOY.

Montpelier, Ind., Sept. 19.—One of the fierce flashes of lightning witnessed Wednesday evening did some damage to the new house of Charles Kershner, two miles northeast of this city, and seriously shocked and burned Oscar Martin, aged 16, son of Lloyd Martin, who was sitting in the house at the time. Martin and Kershner had been plastering the house, but while it was raining they remained in the building. Young Martin was sitting on the floor leaning against the wall when a bolt of lightning struck the chimney. The lightning followed the brick flue downward, and jumped off, striking the young man on one side of the back. It went down burning his back, and burned a strip almost to his knee, two inches wide, and then left his body and went back into the chimney, it seemed, making a hole in the wall. The young man was unconscious for about an hour.

HELD FOR A CROOKED DEAL.

Columbia City, Ind., Sept. 19.—Harmon Withrow and wife, of Los Angeles, Cal., or other western point, he being a son of Mrs. Belle Withrow, of the Pacific coast, who visited here a year ago with the families of Frank L. White, of this city, and Alonzo S. Hyre at Laud, got into a bad deal Wednesday that resulted in his being jailed, after he attempted to dispose of a livery outfit, hired in Huntington from Frank Glass, to Ernest Born of the Born livery barn, on South Main street, this city. He hired the horse at 10 o'clock and was to return it at 3 o'clock in Huntington. Just about that time he tried to make a deal with Born for the sale of the entire outfit for $135.

SCHOOL BOY IS SHOT.

Kendallville, Ind., Sept. 19.—Glenn Herberger, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Herberger, residing southwest of the city, and a pupil in the Kendallville schools, was painfully, though not seriously, injured Wednesday evening while en route home from school in company with Marshall Diggins, when he was accidentally shot through the right leg with a 22-caliber revolver. The accident occurred near the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Verne Haywood, two miles southwest of the city, but just how it happened neither of the boys is able to explain.

CORN CUTTING A LOST ART.

Huntington County Farmers Find Difficulty in Getting Help.

Huntington, Ind., Sept. 19.—Farmers of Huntington county are having much difficulty in getting help to harvest one of the largest corn crops of recent years. The favorite weather of the past season has confronted the farmers with the problem of cutting and caring for an unusual amount of fodder.

A number of years ago, before the present scarcity of labor was felt, there were men who each year made a business of working in the harvest fields and went about the country offering their services at all the farms they passed. These men were experienced workmen and familiar with the manner of caring for crops.

As a result of the increased demand for labor this is no longer practiced, and many farmers have complained of the inexperience of what little help can be obtained. Wages can be had either by the day or by the shock, the rate by the shock varying with the quality of the corn. Five and six cents a shock ten hills square are the usual rates, and with board, makes it possible for a man with a little experience to earn very good wages. Forty shocks are considered an ordinary day's work.

Van Wert, Ohio, Sept. 19.—Another almost miraculous escape from serious injury and perhaps death due to an automobile accident happened in Van Wert county when a Ford touring car from Pleasant Mills, Ind., carrying as passengers Mr. and Mrs. E. W. France and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Daniels and two small children, overturned in the ditch southwest of the city. The machine was en route to Saginaw, Mich., on a pleasure trip and was moving along at a good rate of speed when it approached a bend in the road near the residence of George Lewis, six miles southwest of this city at which point the slippery condition of the road caused the automobile to become unmanageable, skidding into the ditch and completely turning turtle. The occupants of the car were all thrown violently to the ground under the machine, and all escaped injury with the exception of Mrs. France, who suffered a fractured arm.

TOCSIN MUST CLEAN UP.

Bluffton, Ind., Sept. 19.—Dr. A. W. Brown county health officer, made a trip to Tocsin to investigate conditions there relative to typhoid fever, of which there are now eight or nine severe cases at that place. As a result of his investigations stringent orders will be issued for a general cleaning up of the town. He reports that he found conditions in some instances deplorable and an entire absence of proper sanitary measures. Written orders will be given in several instances for a thorough cleaning of premises, including barns, chicken coops, hog pens, etc. The doctor says that he found one filthy chicken coop in close proximity to a residence in which there were typhoid fever patients. One of the worst places in the town is reported to be the stock yards, which Dr. Brown says have a mire of deep filth and look like they have not been cleaned for years. This filth will be ordered removed.

COMPUTING DRY MEASURE.

Huntington, Ind., Sept. 19.—F. P. Rees, proprietor of the Court House Cash grocery store, has been granted a patent on the Reese computing cabinet. He will place them on the market as soon as the contract is let for their manufacture and the first shipment received. The final papers will probably be received some time next week. Mr. Rees and his father, W. A. Rees, will promote the industry in the United states, the foreign rights only to be sold. The computing cabinet is the first computing dry measure to be recorded in the patent office, although there are computing scales, liquid machines and lineal measures galore. An additional patent has been obtained for the adjustable part of the cabinet that makes it possible to measure out the desired quantity of beans, coffee, rice, chicken feed, etc., for which a customer might ask.

LAD WITH A LARGE INSIDE.

Bluffton, Ind., Sept. 19.—Henry Edris, a son of Morris Edris, won the belt for long distance ice cream eating at a local soda fountain when he consumed thirteen large chocolate sundaes without stopping to rest, and expressed regret that he had to leave to pass his papers, expressing confidence that he could get away with five or six more. Henry went into the soda fountain and ordered three portions of the delicacy, which he consumed. He then expressed the belief that he could eat ten more, and a railroad man standing by offered to buy the cream for Henry if he would eat it. The amusement committee of the street fair are thinking of booking Henry as an additional free act.

H. O. DERMODY SEVERELY HURT

Well Known Engineer Had Arm Broken and Ankle and Back Sprained.

G. R. & I. MAKES A NEW TIME CARD

Nearly Every Passenger Train is Effected and Two Dropped from List.

H. O. Dermody, one of the well known Pennsylvania yard engineers, suffered painful injuries last night when he fell from a moving car in the yards. He was hastily taken to the St. Joseph hospital, where an examination developed the fact that one of the bones of his arm was fractured, one of his ankles sprained and his back wrenched and bruised. Engineer Dermody climbed upon a string of cars that was being moved by his engine and started to walk over them to the cab. The fireman was at the throttle and when the signal to stop was given he applied the air and the cars stopped suddenly. Mr. Dermody was thrown to the tracks.

G. R. & I. NEW TIME CARD.

Next Sunday a time card that will affect the time of departure of nearly every train on the schedule will become effective on the Grand Rapids and Indiana and the traveler who does not wish to be left will do well to note the following: No. 5, northbound, now scheduled at 2:10 a. m., will leave at 1:45 a. m.; No. 7, now at 8:50 a. m., will leave at 8:55; No. 9, at 1:15 p. m., no change; No. 3, now 4:15 p. m., will leave at 4:30 p. m., and No. 19, the Northland limited, will be discontinued. Southbound the schedule will be: No. 4, now 1:10, will leave at 1:30 a. m.; No. 12, now 6:25 a. m., will leave at 6:35 a. m.; No. 2, now 12:35 p. m., will leave at 1:25 p. m.; No. 16, Sunday only, will leave at 7:20 p. m.; No. 8 will arrive and stop here at 7 p. m., no change; and No. 6, which also stops at Fort Wayne, will arrive at 10:55 p. m. instead of at 10:25 o'clock, as formerly. No. 20, the southbound Northland limited, is discontinued.

HAS 3979 PENSIONERS.

The Pennsylvania Railroad System's "Roll of Honor," just issued, shows that there were 3979 pensioners on the list September 1, 1913. In this number are included 987 men who were employed on the lines west of Pittsburg. Among the new pensioners are Conductor Charles E. Ross and Fireman Henry Sayner, of Fort Wayne, and Conductor M. R. Mathews, of Alliance. The latter is the uncle of Trainmaster J. F. Patterson. Mr. Mathews was on the payrolls forty-nine years, Mr. Ross forty-eight years and Mr. Sayner thirty-four years. Another familiar name in the list is that of W. F. Beardsley, master mechanic at Crestline, who worked for the company over forty-seven years. The roll of honor shows that since the establishment of the pension system, 802 pensioners on the lines west of Pittsburg have died.

THUMB BADLY CRUSHED.

A painful injury was sustained by Boilermaker J. H. Cour at the Wabash shops yesterday. The bone of the thumb was broken in several places and the flesh was badly lacerated.

INJURED IN FALL.

R. J. Fisher has returned from a business trip to Buffalo, Cleveland and Erie in the interest of the Bass Foundry and Machine works. Mr. Fisher met the higher officials of the Nickel Plate in Cleveland and was informed by them that the Stony Island shops of the company would be rebuilt.

Henry F. Henschen, a Pennsylvania baggageman, is off duty on account of the death of his aunt, Mrs. Bartelmeyer, who resided many years on a farm a few miles out from Bluffton, Ind., and who was very highly esteemed and widely known in that part of the country. Mr. Henschen and family will go to the funeral.

The name of Glen Park station, on the Nickel Plate, twenty miles east of Chicago, has been changed and from now on appears in the official time tables of that road as "South Gary." The change was decided upon for the purpose of indicating in this manner that Gary may be reached by way of the Nickel Plate. The territory surrounding the station has been incorporated into the limits of the city of Gary for some time.

WASHED UP BY THE WAVES

Innumerable Articles, Many of Value, Reward Search Made Along the New York Beaches.

Along the beach at Manhattan and Brighton, as well as at the Rockaways, articles aggregating $100 in value are picked up every morning, relates the New York Herald. And this amount is considered by the regulars along those shores to be a very conservative estimate.

The articles found range from the gold filling of a tooth to a cork leg. And you need not think the cork leg statement is drawing it with a long bow. There was one washed ashore the last week in June.

It belonged to James J. Fitzsimmons, cook on a Maine coasting schooner. Fitzsimmons had removed it, so it came out afterward in a Water street tavern, so that he might indulge in a bath. The schooner lurched. So did the cork leg. Fitzsimmons wailed an alarm, but the skipper, being in a hurry to make a Maine port at a particular hour, refused to luff and pick the leg up. So it washed ashore and its identity was revealed by a brass plate containing the owner's name and New York address. It was sent back by parcel post.

Every now and then a wig is picked up. The supposition is that the owner was swimming at night and was overconfident that his top piece would remain on his head when he dived. Lockets and chains are found in numbers. It is likely they are kept on the neck by girls and women when they don bathing costume and slip off when their owners are frolicking in the waves. Of course they are dropped close to the shore line or they would never be seen again. The constant rolling shoreward of the waves gradually forces them into view.

Watches, chains, finger rings, scarfpins, cuff links, studs, eyeglasses, belts, fountain pens, key rings, full sets of artificial teeth, garters, cravats, hatpins, canes, umbrellas, crutches, shoe buckles, gold hairpins, purses and scores of other things are among the daily morning finds.

Bird That Has Four Legs.

British Guiana boasts of one of the few survivors of the many peculiar birds now known mostly as fossils, according to a writer in Our Dumb Animals. This is the crested hoactzin, and may be found only in very dense and unexplored forests. The hoactzin is noted chiefly for its peculiarity in possessing four well developed legs.

This would never be suspected in the adult bird, inasmuch as a certain modification begins while the bird is yet young, whereby the claw-like legs or hands become shaped like wings, and feathers are grown, so that when this bird gets its full plumage there is nothing left from which one would suspect that these wings were once legs.

The young birds, before this modification does take place, leave the nest and climb or scramble over the limbs not unlike tree toads or young monkeys. They feed on the young arum leaves and are in this young state the nearest approach to a quadruped of any bird.

Buggy Ride With Her.

Did you ever take a buggy ride in the still of the evening, down the winding turns of a country pike, with the fair one by your side? If so, 'nuff said. With a proper sense of proportion, the old-time buggy was made to hold exactly one and a half. The result was propinquity—also bliss. Along the road—all too short—you drove. Moo cows mooed in the distance. Anxious mothers came to the door and cried: "W-l-l-l-e!" But you were lost to bovine plaints and maternal solicitudes. Pungent odors from the dog fennel mingled with the faint perfume of the thistle's bloom. The night dew lay on the fields, starlight drenched the earth and you discovered you had a soul. The air was chill, and you fixed a shawl. Hands touched and withdrew, followed by most eloquent and ecstatic silence. Then came the parting, as you "handed" her out at the gate. A whispered good-by, lest any other hear, and a retreating vision of a rosebud fairer than John D.'s pastor ever dreamed of.—Washington Post.

VALUES HUBBY AT $50,000.

Wife Brings Suit Against Two Women for Alienation.

Baltimore, Sept. 19.—Placing a value of $50,000 on the love of her husband, Rev. John F. Cuthriell, formerly a Methodist minister of the Baltimore conference, Mrs. Bettie Farinholt Cuthriell, of Richmon, Va., has filed suit for alleged alienation of affections against Mrs. Helen M. Norris and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Bertha Norris, of Easton, Md., in the United States district court in this city.

Rev. Cuthriell was stationed in Easton for some time and his wife says that the alleged wrongs were committed before and after September 5, 1912. Two letters are offered as exhibits. One of this is said to have been written by Mrs. Helen M. Norris, who addressed the clergyman as "My Dear Son," and the other is said to have been written by her daughter-in-law, the opening sentence being, "My Dear Big Brother."

"Should our better halves ever realize how much I really did care for my adopted brother, and how interested I am in his happiness, I feel assured there would be a spontaneous combustion in two families, so this is where the old adage works in charm, 'Where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise.' Mother Norris sends love, but it told her I was not going to send it, as I was not going to let you have any one's love but my own, so here it is."

The letter addressed to "Dear Son" refers to a trip "son" was going to take to Easton.

DISCARD "DANGER" FOR ARROW.

Signs to Replace Lettering in Iron Regions of the Northwest.

Duluth, Minn., Sept. 19.—Danger signs without the word "danger" on them will be adopted by the United States government for use in the iron mines of the Mesaba, Vermillion, Cuyuna, Menominee, Marquette and Gogebic ranges, according to Edward Higgins, of the bureau of mines, engineer of that district. Words and lettering of all kinds have been discarded because of the many nationalities of the miners.

Green and black arrows will point the way to safety and danger, respectively, so that all the laborers will be able to comprehend. The signs will be white, with a large red oval in the center.

The arrows will be painted across the red surface with their heads in different directions.

SENDS A BODY BY MAIL.

Poor Mother, Inclosing $1, Asks That Baby Be Buried.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 16.—When David H. Schuyler, an undertaker, looked over his mail he found a neatly wrapped package which had been delivered by parcel post. It held a newly-born baby, which apparently had been dead only a few hours. Inclosed was a $1 bill and attached to it a note, evidently written in a disguised hand, which read: "This is from a poor mother. Please bury the little body and accept the inclosed dollar for your services."

The body was turned over to the coroner's office to be buried by the city.

THIS WOMAN IS MINE PRESIDENT

She Directs and Operates Property Owned by Women.

CHATS OF HER WORK

San Francisco, Sept. 19.—The Alaska Garnet Mining and Manufacturing Co., of Wrangell, Alaska, a $1,000,000 corporation, is an enterprise that gives silent testimony in woman's financial genius. Miss Lettie Crafts, its president, who is here to arrange for a concession and an exhibit at the Panama-Pacific exposition, is its head. She is one of today's women who will make the fiction writers stop star-gazing and turn their attention to the "here and now."

At the Alaskan-Yukon-Pacific exposinet company was the only concession that net company wasthe only concession that came out with a balance on the credit side of the ledger.

The concession paid because it was run by women, but the company's list of officers shows what sort of women the officers of the company are: Miss Lettie Crafts, president, former occupation, assistant librarian in the University of Minneapolis, Minn.; Miss Anna E. Durkee, secertary and general manager, formerly head of the women's department of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. in Minneapolis; Mrs. Minnie R. Taylor, vice president, home woman; Miss Mary T. Elmer, terasurer, formerly a trained nurse.

MISS LETTIE CRAFTS, PRESIDENT OF A SUCCESSFUL MINING COMPANY RUN BY WOMEN.

The fifteen directors of the company are all women engaged in various business pursuits, with one or two capitalists. The stockholders are mostly women, although a few men have been let in. However, these have nothing to say. They simply draw their dividends.

Miss Durkee, who bought and developed the mine, is superintending and managing it. In fact, women do everything but picking and shoveling.

"Women are more honest in business and less apt to try to freeze out the little stockholders," said Miss Crafts, "therefore they make better promoters. If the trusts were managed by women, there would be no need of a Sherman law."

GIRL ASKS $1 FOR KISSES.

Young Society Woman of Salem Materially Aids Hospital Fund.

Salem, Ohio, Sept. 19.—One dollar a kiss was paid by the young men of Salem to one of the town's society girls in the campaign to raise money for the new hospital, which has just been completed.

While $31,232 was raised in the four-day campaign, it is not a matter of record how many dollars the society girl turned in to the campaign treasurer. But if report is correct, she materially aided in the growth of the fund.

One of the young married women of Salem charged her husband for shaking hands with her and turned the proceeds over to the hospital. In the present campaign and one conducted two years ago Salem people have contributed $100,000 to the hospital.

SWATS 126 QUARTS OF FLIES.

Woman Wins Championship in Month's Contest at Macomb, Ill.

Galesboro, Ill., Sept. 19.- One hundred and twenty-six quarts of flies, "swatted" by Miss Lucile Gallagher, of Macomb, Ill., earned for her the championship in the fly-swatting contest conducted by the Woman's Civic league of Macomb. In the report of the league announcement was made of the killing of 588 quarts, or approximately 4,413,500 flies.

GIVE UP WORK GRADUALLY

Man Accustomed to Regular Duties Makes Mistake When He Suddenly Ceases All Labor.

Many business men at the age of fifty or fifty-five work eight hours a day and enjoy it. They will tell you they feel as young as they did ten years before.

Then some of them conclude they have enough of this world's goods and retire.

It is a well-known fact that brain or muscle work forms in the system a poison, and if we keep on working a condition which doctors call auto intoxication is produced. Which means that the antitoxin nature has produced in our bodies has not been enough to offset the poison of our burned up energy.

Rest and deep sleep are supposed to clear the body of all poisons and waste. But it has been proved in the cases of persons who use drugs that after they have taken into their system a certain drug in increased amounts for some months they can stand an amount which would kill a dozen persons not accustomed to the drug.

From the minute the drug was in their system nature started to work to produce in that body an antitoxin to fight the poison they were taking. Nature gets many habits of her own, and she gets into the habit of expecting to form an antitoxin to battle with that poison or drug which that body has been taking daily, and she produces it daily.

Now suddenly let that same body stop taking into it the drug it was used to; nature does not stop forming the antitoxin. No indeed; she goes right on for weeks and months foaming the antitoxin she has been accustomed to form, and the little fighting army to fight and being of a poisonous nature themselves, turn from little workers, when they have their own work to do, to bad workers, with no work, and start fighting the good cells of the body, producing a self-poisoning which is likely to cause death.

If a man has been working daily for years and the energy used up by work has produced a sort of poisonous waste, enough to cause auto intoxicating if not cleared out by rest and sleep, would it not seem reasonable that nature had daily in that man's system been forming an antitoxin to offset the poisonous waste and that when he suddenly stops work the same condition takes place as with a person who takes poison? The antitoxin cells, finding no poisonous waste to work on, turn and work on the good cells of the body, causing auto intoxication and sickness and many times death.

It would seem that a man giving up work should do so gradually.

Sacrificed All for Hobby.

At Ivry, a Paris suburb, has just died a remarkable old man, a septuagenarian, named Fraissard. He died in poverty, but had he chosen he could have become one of the most famous European sculptors. As it was, he finished life as he began it—more or less penniless. When a boy he was apprenticed to a marble cutter, and he at once discovered his powers in this direction. For fifty years he had continued to execut the most beautiful works of art, mostly in mosaics. M. Fraissard's masterpiece took him nearly twenty-four years to perfect. It is a black marble table. In the middle is a chessboard, on either side of which are playing cards arranged as fans. On the table are dominoes and dice, cigars and cigarettes, and sevral coins in gold and silver. All these are, of course, inlaid. The materials in the table, beside the black marble, are agate, onyx, porphyry, malachite and lapis lazuli, the tones of which are black, red, orange, blue and white. Ninety different kinds of marble were also used.

Eloped by Aeroplane.

An elopement by aeroplane which has yet some features of the old-time elopement is reported from Niort, France.

Two months ago a good-looking young airman was giving exhibition flights at Niort. A pretty governess fell in love with him and begged him to take her up in his aeroplane. A few days later the airman eloped with her in the machine, and did not descend until he reached Issy, 250 miles away.

The girl's father has now lodged a complaint against the airman, whom he accuses of having adbucted his daughter and detained her against her will. The governess, when she appeared before the police commissary, said that she had eloped with the airman of her own free will and declared that she would be eternally grateful to him for flying away with her. She added that, as she was of age, she was free to do as she pleased.

The father's complaint was dismissed.

Women in Turkey.

Dr. Mary Ellis Patrick of Boston, president of the American College for Girls in Constantinople, who is now in this country, says that she finds Turkish girls apt pupils and very anxious to learn. As many women are now being called to take the places of men who have fallen in battle, the value of an education is better appreciated than ever before. Today there are several thousand Mohammedan girls and women attending the university. One of the girls who left the school less than a year ago is now chief editorial writer on the Tannin, the leading Young Turk publication. She has written two novels dealing with the political situation in Turkey.

NEW DRESS TRIMMINSG AND ACCESSORIES

In all our history we have never beheld a time when the Trimming Section contained so many wonderful and exquisitely beautiful things as are to be found there right now. It is a bewildering collection of shimmering loveliness, and Milady who wishes her dress to be in accord with the season's demand for bright colors and novel effects, may find here the very trimmings required, and what is still better, they are exclusive.

Buttons are being used extensively in securing odd trimming effects, and naturally the buttons themselves are odd. Strange shapes, strange colors, strange materials add variety to the button display, which covers every possible style demand and gives room for the exercise of individuality which every woman loves to incorporate in her gowns.

The pride of the Section is the showing of Beaded Tunics. These new creations are the very climax of rich bead work on net. They make the Dress problem an easy one for one needs but a plain slip of silk or sheer white material, as a foundation. The Tunic transforms it into a handsome evening gown. All prices.

WHEN THE SEA TAKES TOLL

Lone Survivor of Gallant Crew All That the Life Savers Might Bring Through the Breakers.

The vessel fought in that last half hour as it had fought all day—gamely, but without hope. Those who watched from the lee shore saw the wheelhouse, like a smashed match box; saw the crazed, demented movements in the cauldron, drifting here and there, but always terribly shoreward. Sea followed sea in wild confusion, a great jungle of mad monsters, foaming white at the mouth, roaring, snarling, snapping with vicious teeth. It was nearer now. Only a few minutes to live. A great, shaggy brute, bigger and wilder than the rest, charged it, caught it as it were on the tusks and threw it high to where it struck, beaten at last, with its nose on the outer rocks.

The first rocket was true, but as the line fell across the deck a great green monster sprang forward and downward. Only two men remained where there had been seven. The second line fell clear, but the third landed, and the survivors made it fast to a winch. The chair was half way out to them when the next cruel charge came. It beat one of them for, when the shining cataracts rolled from the deck it was a solitary figure that clung with arms and legs to the slippery metal. The buoy was waiting for him, but he dared not move. He chose his chance well, toppled across the perilous deck and got himself into the seat. Blinded and stung, he gripped the rope and was dragged through the welter of waters. His look was the look of a drowned man and his chilled hands held the rope with what seemed a death grip. It was only by force that the rescuers could unloosen the stiffened fingers and carry him to the station.

He gave no sign for a long while, and even when he breathed again an hour passed before he found his tongue. He lay there with blank eyes, his mouth half open, his jaw loose, no look of comprehension on his face. Not a word did he speak until, outside in the shed, the station mascot set to barking at the wind.

The man moved uneasily.

"On de ship," he said, very slowly, each word apart. "On de ship I haf had von little dog."

And he wept, unrestrainedly, as a young girl weeps.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Testing Wool Fabrics.

Two good ways of telling whether or not the cloth you buy for "all wool" is really what it is represented to be are given by Miss Anabell Turner of the home economics department of the University of Wisconsin in the Rural New Yorker.

"Unravel a sample of the material exposing the warp and weft threads separately," she says. "Wool fibers are more curly than the cotton. Then burn some of the threads; if cotton, they will burn quickly; if wool, more slowly with an odor like that of burning feathers or bone.

"If cotton and wool have been spun together in the same thread the above test is not reliable. In such a case, the alkali test should be used. Mix together one tablespoonful of Lewis lye and one pint of water. Place the sample of goods in a granite dish, cover with solution, and boil for five minutes. At the end of this time all the wool will be dissolved out leaving the cotton intact, so that it is easy to see how much cotton was used to adulterate the 'pure wool' fabric."

More than five times as many immigrants entered Brazil last year as went to that vast country ten years ago.

In Massachusetts all streams of water unsuited for drinking must be marked so that the fact can be overlooked.

The stencil cutting business is threatened by a device which cuts the stencil out of paper.

PLANNING Y. W. C. A. WORK.

All Classes Are to Start First Week in October.

Arrangements are being completed by the officers of the Young Women's Christian association for the work of the season of 1913-1914. Miss Ruth E. Melin, who will have charge of the physical training department, has her program mapped out for the winter and the classes are to start on Oct. 6. The educational and bible classes also are being arranged, but all of the teachers have not been selected.

The first year of the Y. W. C. A. in its new home on West Wayne street is expected to see an enormous increase in the membership of the association. While the addition of a physical training department will prove a great attraction the other departments will be more interesting than ever before. The physical training classes are open to every woman and girl in the city regardless of age.

FOUND A LABOR LOBBY.

Washington, Sept. 19.—The house lobby committee abandoned work on its report today long enough to hear former Representative Charles E. Littlefield, of Maine, who Martin M. Mulhall, former lobbyist for the National Association of Manufacturers, testified was one of the chief allies of that organization in the house.

Mr. Littlefield testified today that beginning with his entrance to congress in 1899 until he resigned in 1908, he found "an active, energetic and powerful labor lobby headed by Samuel Gompers."

LICENSED TO WED.

THIS GIRL BEATS BUDDING MEDICOS

"I Didn't Want to Outdo Anybody," Modestly Says Miss Ridson.

BUT SHE SURELY DID

Berkeley, Cal., Sept. 19.—The budding young medicos of the west have been shown up. And a woman did it.

MISS RUTH RISDON.

Miss Ruth Risdon, daughter of Dr. H. T. Risdon, a local physician, was awarded a higher grade in the examination for physicians and surgeons by the state board of examiners than any of her classmates and ranked second highest in the state in this year's crop of young doctors. Her standing was 93.3 per cent.

At present she is acting as interne at the University hospital in San Francisco, but will practice in Berkeley as soon as her internship is finished. Miss Risdon received her degree of bachelor of science in 1911. For a year she acted as assistant in anatomy and histology in the medical school on the campus.

Miss Risdon takes her honors modestly. "Why, I didn't want to outdo anybody," she said. "I didn't expect to make such a high mark."

AWAKENS MUCH INTEREST.

News of Diaz's Recall to Run for President Is Discussed.

Washington, Sept. 19.—News that General Felix Diaz, nephew of Porfirio Diaz, had been recalled to Mexico to become the candidate of the Huerta faction in the coming presidential election aroused much interest here in official circles.

The general feeling was that the return of Diaz mean compliance with President Wilson's demand, that Gen. Huerta should not be a candidate. So far as auguring an era of peace, however, the outlook was described as discouraging. While the American government is in accord with a promise to extend recognition to a government set up by a legal and free election, it is said to be practically certain that the United States would not hasten to recognize Diaz if he was elected but would wait in accord with the precedents of President Hayes administration to determine whether the resulting government was strong enough to maintain peace and guarantee international obligations.

BANDITS USED STOLEN AUTO.

Machine Carrying Bryan Robbers Owned at Camden, N. J.

Philadelphia, Sept. 19.—That the automobile used by the highwaymen in a hold-up near Bryan, Ohio, early yesterday morning was the property of a physician of Camden, N. J., and had been stolen Sept. 9 from in front of a restaurant in this city, was established today and leads to the theory that the highwaymen started from Philadelphia. The automobile is the property of Dr. Paul N. Litchfield.

Following the hold-up in Ohio the number of the automobile's engine was taken and sent to the manufacturers. They traced the number to their Philadelphia agency, who in turn traced it to Dr. Litchfield.

STARTLING STORY TOLD.

Arson Ring Attempts to Smother Prosecution at Chicago.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—A startling story of the arson ring's alleged eorts to smother prosecution was told today in the state's attorney's office by John Gagliardo, alleged go-between in the trapping of Special Investigator Charles Furthman. Gagliardo, who is alleged to have given Furthmann marked bills to betray secrets of the state's attorney's office, said he had been urged by a "certain man" to obtain aid of the "blackhand" to intimidate Assistant State's Attorney Frank Johnson, who was in charge of the prosecution of the arson cases. Gagliardo said that the plan was to kidnap Attorney Johnson's nine-year-old son Russin and hold the lad as a club over the prosecutor.

DIFFICULT TO GET NEW JOB.

B. & O. Conductor Testifies Regarding Railroad Man Out of Work.

New York, Sept. 19.—Claud Dillon, a freight conductor on the Baltimore and Ohio, told the arbitrators in the wage controversy today that a railroad man out of a job at the age of thirty-eight or more found it next to impossible to get work elsewhere. "We call such railroad men 'broken down rails,'" said Dillon.

Wm. G. Lee, the trainmen's representative, said that in previous controversies th eemployes never got what they asked for. "Every settlement ever made with a railroad," he added, "has been a compromise."

O. O. Thwing, of the Western Gas Construction company, has returned from St. Louis, where he attended the funeral of his brother-in-law, Frank Pariso. Mrs. Thwing will remain in St. Louis for several weeks.

BATTED BALL KILLS BOY.

Neck Is Broken When Hit by Missile in Crossing Playground.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 19.—Louis Roberts, 11 years old, 1725 Vine street, was killed at the municipal playground, Nineteenth and Vine streets, by being struck by a batted ball. The boy was crossing the playground from the Vine street side and passed the lower end of the lot, where some older boys were playing ball. The ball, batted by Francis Logue, 17 years old, 1721 Wood street, struck Roberts back of the ear, felling him.

The injured lad was carried into a neighboring house, where he died twenty minutes later. Physicians who examined him said that his neck had been broken. It was not until several hours later that the victim was identified at the morgue by his father. The police of the Ninth district arrested young Logue and Lawrence Delaney, 19 years old, 1828 Wood street, and held them to await the action of the coroner.

IN READY DEMAND AS WIFE.

Girl Left Behind Tries to Use Old License on New Sweetheart.

Pottstown, Pa., Sept. 19.—Not every girl around Stowe, this borough's lively west end suburb, can get a husband as easily as Miss Elizabeth Petzer has demonstrated her ability to do.

Last week her first prospective husband was arrested here and taken back to Homestead to answer a serious charge. A marriage license had been issued for his marriage to Miss Petzer.

A day or so later the young woman appeared before Magistrate J. M. Neiman and asked that the name of her first lover be scratched from the license and that of John Husner, 448 Chestnut street, this borough, be substituted for it.

The squire told her that a new license was necessary. This was procured and the wedding occurred Sunday.

PET'S DEATH UPSETS WIFE.

Sued for Separation, Husband Asserts Loss of Goat Caused Fits.

New York, Sept. 19.—The death of a pet goat, witnessed by Mrs. Ermino Meo in Italy years ago, is the direct cause for her now wishing a separation from her husband, according to the answer filed in the supreme court by Guglielmo Meo, who is accused of cruelty. He explained that ever since she saw the goat killed his wife has been subject to fits of hysteria and that the constantly recurring fits have caused unhappiness in his home at 2321 Hughes avenue, the Bronx.

Mrs. Meo alleges that the mother and married sister of her husband have poisoned his mind against her, and that all three have abused her. Her husband enters a general denial.

WM. HAHN & COMPANY

LAWYER WORKS FOR NOTHING

Eighth Wonder of World is Discovered in City of Seattle.

HIS UNIQUE SYSTEM

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 19.—The late King Solomon says that there is nothing new under the sun; that T. R. and Dr. Cook couldn't get anything across that someone had not put over before.

Be that as it may, we make bold to assert, nevertheless, that there have been few, mighty few, lawyers, both in the past and in the present, whose mitts didn't itch for coin.

GLENN E. HOOVER.

Yet read this card:

"Glenn E. Hoover, lawyer, 607 Leary building. Those who cannot pay are very welcome. Those who can, pay what they wish. My clients fix the amount of my fees."

Hoover, in his "rah rah" days at the University of Washington, walked off with all kinds of oratorical medals. He was a member of the intercollegiate debate teams, one year winning places on two teams, and was also selected the university's representative in a triangular college oratorical contest.

Glenn Hoover is a socialist. In fact, he has leaned toward socialism since his high school days. He was one of the commencement day orators at the old Seattle high, and he created a furore with a speech on the Russian revolution.

That was in 1905.

The reactionary press fumed and raged. How dared a mere school boy preach socialism, they wanted to know? What was the matter with the school board? The school board replied that it knew nothing about Hoover's oration, that it was sprung as a surprise, etc.

So, when the university boys got into a little bit of a wrangle with the board of regents not so very long ago about certain chimes, they rallied upon their old comrade to help them in their battle.

Hoover shocked the attorney general's office when he made a speech upholding the protesting students. He shocked the board of regents even more so.

And Hoover is now, of course, no longer connected with the attorney genral's department. He opened up an office for himself, lets his clients fix their own fees, and has already been called down by Judge Humphries several time and advised that the jail is yawning for him.

But Hoover smiles contentedly and says he's having the best time of his life, even though some of his clients have less money than Jawn D.

CAUCUS RULE CUT ATTENDANCE DOWN

House Debate on Currency Bill Made Somewhat of a Farce.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP

(By Gilson Gardner.)

Washington, Sept. 19.—During the consideration of the currency bill in the house the attendance has averaged less than 100 members. A quorum has not been present at any time. This is one of the most important laws ever considered by congress. It is undoubtedly a good measure as far as it goes. This fact, however, should not obscure the more important fact that it is passed under caucus rule, which results in making the house debate an empty farce, and at the same time depriving the public of its right to a vote and rollcall on all important features of the bill. Members are not to be blamed for their absence since they could do nothing to change in any way the caucus measure. Their attendance is quite as futile as their speeches.

"Human lives are the most precious things in the world." This statement appears in flaming red letters at the bottom of a poster which the Pennsylvania railroad is placing in all of its stations, appealing to the public to "stop, look and listen" before venturing on the grade crossings which the company says it cannot abolish just yet because it would cost too much money. "A little care and a momentary stop may mean the saving of a human life," says the poster. Last year, according to the records of the interstate commerce commission, 596 employes of American railroads were killed in train accidents, while 7,098 were injured. In coupling accidents 192 lost their lives and 3,234 were maimed. From overhead abstructions 77 men were killed and 1,523 injured; falling from cars, etc., contributed 573 to the total death list, and 13,874 to the injured column; while from "other causes," 1,482 employes died and 23,391 were injured. Altogether the American roads killed 2,920 of their employes and mashed up more or less seriously 49,120 of them. These comprised the list only of employes on duty. Oh, yes, "human lives are the most precious things in the world."

The reply of N. A. M. to Col. Mulhall's charges now that the evidence is in is to call the colonel a liar in very loud tones. The official bulletin issued by N. A. M.'s publicity agent alludes to Mulhall thus: "Bereft of every quality of sentiment, Mulhall remains unparalleled in mendacious malice. Had he been sired by Ananias, dammed by Sapphira and born in hell, he would dishonor his parents and disgrace his country." This is typical of the entire defense of N. A. M. The four thousand letters, together with itemized expense accounts offered by Mulhall and corroborated by infinite detail and collateral testimony could not be answered. James A. Emery, nominally counsel and really head of the Washington lobby, has admitted every substantial allegation under oath. This was under cross-examination and generally after he had tried to escape by flat denial. N. A. M. has been a vicious, insidious and corrupt lobbyist and the facts have been amply proved. The exposure is one of the most beneficial things that has ever occurred in Washington.

By reason of the fact that the Wilson administration and its particular department which has to do with immigration has not lost every trace of common sense, there will be no interference with the decorus and proper landing of Mrs. Pankhurst when she arrives in New York.

On President George F. Baer's Reading railroad all-steel cars have been substituted throughout the system for the old wooden cars—for carrying coal. In wrecks it was found that the wooden cars buckled and spilled the coal. For carrying passengers the Reading road finds wooden cars with steel underframes quite sufficient. The matter is one of economics pure and simple. The loss of coal was serious.

In our political hall of fame we have reserved a niche for Representative Sisson, of Mississippi, first to announce that he will not abide by the decrees of the democratic caucus. Here, janitor, put up the Sisson bust.

It would be a shame to dim the new and sudden joy of standpat republicans who for the first time in many months have seen a gleam of hope in the returns from Maine's third district. And something must be conceded to their joy. It is with obvious reluctance that New England is pulled loose from its special tariff privilege. The horrors in contemplation, too, are much worse than any which really happen. The effects of the tariff bill so far have been in prophecy. And then, besides, there never was any fundamental difference between the platform declarations of the progressive party and the republicans on the subject of the tariff.

Don't Look Old Before Your Time

WOMAN'S delicate system requires more than ordinary care and attention—more care and attention than it is given by the average woman.

Neglect it and ills soon creep in, and the look of old age, sometimes quickly, sometimes gradually follows.

That backache, so common among women, brings with it the sunken chest, the headache, tired muscles, crow's-feet, and soon the youthful body is no more youthful in appearance—and all because of lack of attention.

There is no reason why you should be so unfortunate, when you have at your disposal a remedy such as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—recommended for over 40 years as a remedy for ailments peculiar to women. to the voice of war, failed to recognize the accents of defeat or victory and heard only outbursts of song. The two drew nearer. Suddenly the truth fell upon Moses like a howlder from the mountain. Israel had corrupted herself and gone back to worship of idols. His great soul swelled with speechless rage, while he flung the tables of the law from his hand and dashed them to the earth. He ground the idol to powder and scattered its dust uponwater.

Aaron, when confronted with the responsibility, like the weak man that he was, protested and laid the sin at the door of the people: "Thou knowest the people, that they are set on evil." But the sin had been committed and Omnipotence alone could undo it. Moses interceded with God. To forgive is nobler than to punish. Never before or after did the lawgiver rise to a grander manhood. Like our Advocat , the Christ, he bore the guilt of the people up to the very throne of God—"This people have sinned a great sin, and have made them gods of gold. Yet now, if thou wilt forgive their sin—; and if not, blot me, I pray thee, out of thy book which thou hast written." That was intercession. It was the plea of the innocent for the guilty, the lasting work of the Christ begun upon earth.

BURGLAR AN AERIAL ACROBAT.

Leaps Across Ten-Foot Areaway Sixty Feet Above Ground.

New York, Sept. 19.—Tenants in the apartment house at 1600 Simpson street, the Bronx, were aroused in time to see a burglar leap across an areaway sixty feet above the pavement and catch hold of a fire escape across an interval of ten feet. They saw the man swing for a moment high above the ground, then draw himself up and make his way to the roof.

When twenty reserves from the Morrisania police station came the man had disappeared.

The burglar was surprised in the apartment of Sigmund Genis, and when the latter made a dive for him he ran to the window and made a leap without a moment's hesitation.

Dollars have duties as well as men. An idle dollar is no better than an idle man. Both should be set to work. The dollar that is not earning interest is not doing its duty.

An Everyday View of the Next Sunday School Lesson

Man is a contradiction. His past does not always determine his future. This finds abundant illustration in the history of Israel at Sinai. Never did the currents of public sentiment more completely reverse themselves, or in a shorter time. The explanation is difficult. Here is a people to whom the teaching of the one God had been familiar for centuries. Their lives in trend and drift had been along that one line. And moreover, the incidents of the recent past must have driven the conviction of the existence of this God deeper and deeper into every soul. As a nation they had seen the gods of Egypt wither and die at Jehovah's hand. And by his own hand he had led the people, as a shepherd leads his flock. The sea had retreated before them and a highway had opened through the desert. And at that very moment Mount Sinai, kindled by the flaming torch of the divine presence, was on fire. Clouds and smoke hung about its summit, where God and Moses met and talked as man talks with man. The people lingered about the base in full sight of the awful mystery.

Moses an Expression of God to the Israelites.

In the absence of the lawgiver Aaron and Hur were in charge. Neither was fit for the position. Hur was scarcely a factor, and Aaron was a voice and little else. A tree protected by the surrounding forest is strong against the tempest, but that same tree alone on the mountain bows to the forces directed against it. Such was the position of Aaron—a willow compelled to confront the whirlwind. Waiting tests one more than action. For forty days Moses had been away. Where was he? To the people he had been the expression of God. In this attitude toward him they were right. Christ himself was anticipated in Moses. God must localize himself in person and revelation. The incarnation was more than the fulfillment of prophecy. It was a response to the outcry of the human heart. A Deity on the mountain, dwelling amid clouds and darkness, could not meet the people's sense of need. God, apart from Jesus, appeals to our sense of mystery, but the essential Person is found only in Christ.

In the absence of Moses the people appealed to Aaron: "Make us gods, which shall go before us; for as for this Moses, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we know not what is become of him." They did not ask for a god in the place of Jehovah, but for some visible representation to be what Moses had been. That Aaron should have for a moment entertained their request is the most astonishing part of the whole transaction. They had lived in sight of idolatry all their lives, but he had been favored far above his race. Aaron asks that the people contribute the jewelry which they had brought with them from Egypt. This he threw into the furnace and a golden calf was the result. It was no accident. He had shaped it with his own hands after the form of the god Apis, the sacred bull of the Egyptians.

But there were contradictions stranger still to follow. Men will cling to some semblance of religion long after it has ceased actually to exist for them. Aaron would effect an impossible combination. He would erect an altar and an idol beneath the same roof. In this he anticipated every generation from that age to this. Altars and idols are often found in the same company, and the size of one depends largely upon the size of the other.

It is not entirely certain that the administration of Moses was not without its discords. The readiness to complain would suggest an undercurrent of discontent that does not appear upon the surface. This was probably especially strong among the younger element. Moses was a lawgiver, and youth is naturally impatient to restraint. Aaron was more cosmopolitan. His vision included altar and idol alike. He had observed the festal services in Egypt and noted how they enlisted the interest of the young. The young people as a factor in Israel must not be overlooked.

Whatever the character of Aaron's services they must at least appear to be sacred. Accordingly he proclaimed throughout Israel "Tomorrow shall be a feast unto Jehovah." Tomorrow came, and none too soon for the worshipers. Early in the morning the altar and the idol became the center of an eager multitude. The altar was first to receive their devotion. Burnt offerings and peace offerings were presented without stint. Then came the secular part of the observation. The Egyptian custom of dancing about the idol was revived and Sinai echoed with pleasure and song.

Moses, Pleading for His People, Reaches Height of Grandeur.

Israel was happy, or seemed to be, but at that very moment an old man was stumbling down the mountain with his war secretary by his side. The venerable lawgiver mistook the shouting for the noise of battle, but Joshua, accustomed

Girls Free Their Souls by "Co-Ordinating" in Bare Feet, With Bow and Arrow.

MISS GRACE O'RYAN, A VERY PRETTY "CO-ORDINATOR."

"Co-ordination" is the thing, girls!

It gives one the grace and beauty of the olden days before bodies and souls were cramped by whalebone and shoe leather. It brings the roses to one's cheeks and the tan to much of the rest of one. And it frees one's soul.

And how does one co-ordinate? Simplest thing in the world! One co-ordinates with a bow and arrow, prancing around one's lawn in one's bare feet, wearing a sort of Greek nightie. And of course one has a high board fence around one's yard.

This is a photograph of Miss Grace O'Ryan, one of the prettiest members of Chicago's Co-ordinate club. The club was founded by Mrs. Ahrend von Vlissingen, who lives in the fashionable north side and is a disciple of Ernest Baron von Feuchtesleben, an Austrian physician who started the thing in Europe.

Mrs. von Vlissingen's class meets at the home of Mrs. Turck-Baker, at the corner of Grove and Maple streets. There, in sunny seclusion, with the wind tossing their gossamer garments, they slip back into ancient days and shoot arrows and caper and co-ordinate to their hearts' content.

The idea is that by such untrammeled gamboling the body and soul are brought into complete unity or "co-ordination," and thus soul freedom is attained.

But one has to be careful, else one gets stone bruises on one's feet and sunburn on one's knees.

OLD FRIENDSHIP IS RENT ASUNDER

BREACH IS WIDENING

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 19.—The bonds of friendship that hitherto have held together Medora and Fidelity, neighboring Illinois towns, have been rent asunder, and where once good fellowship prevailed a bitter rivalry reigns.

Fidelity citizens have allowed their feelings to become so embittered that they have served notice on the church authorities that the man who occupies their pulpit cannot occupy the pulpit in hated Medora. And Medora does not seem to care a whit.

Medora is in the western part of Macoupin county, and has about 500 inhabitants. Fidelity is in the eastern part of Jersey county and has about 250 inhabitants. In days gone by the two towns were a unit on all questions that pertained to internal improvements, and almost a unit socially.

The first rift came when Medora built a new high school. It is a real pretentious institution. Medora was proud of it and did not conceal its virtues under a bushel measure.

In comparison with Fidelity's school it was an intellectual and architectural giant, and Fidelity thought Medora boasted altogether too much.

One banking institution had been sufficient for the financial needs of the neighboring towns. But after the school was built Fidelity citizens concluded they would have a bank of their own, so it would be unnecessary to see the detested school building so often.

After the bank was established in Fidelity the feeling of rivalry entered church circles. The Rev. M. H. Ewers was joint pastor of the Medora Methodist church and the Fidelity Methodist church. Medora paid two thirds of the pastor's salary and Fidelity one-third.

Now Fidelity has requested the district superintendent to sever the connection between the two churches.

Fidelity wants a pastor all her own and she will have none who will preach in the Medora church.

Stakes to Show the Overland Path of the Pioneer Westerners.

St. Louis, Sept. 19.—Mrs. John N. Booth, chairman of the old trails committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution, drove the first of the stakes that are to mark the old trail from St. Louis to Kansas City.

This trail was traveled by pioneers who went overland to Independence, Mo., near Kansas City, and there joined the great caravans of homeseekers that followed the Oregon trail to the northwest, or the Santa Fe trail to the southwest.

Other stakes were driven in the city and St. Louis county and in October they are to be replaced with concrete markers.

FOUR BEARS IN FEW MINUTES

Trapper Gets Family That Stole His Bread and Nails, and Has Skins to Prove It.

Two large black bears and two cubs were killed within sight of Dawson, by Bill Roman, after an exciting experience. Roman has a cabin on Dion Gulch, above the city three miles. While sitting in the place with his back to the door in the evening he noticed the place suddenly overcast by a shadow.

"I turned, little suspecting anything serious," says Roman, "when to my horror I saw a huge black bear standing a few feet away. I leaped to my feet and grabbed my .44 caliber Winchester, which is always near the door. I wasted no time and fired when the brute was ten feet away. The ball struck him in the breast, but did not seem to feaze him. The beast rushed forward and was prepared to make a ferocious attack. He made one powerful side swipe at me. I sidestepped and when he was just at the muzzle drove the second bullet home. It passed into his brain and he reeled over at my feet, on my very doorstep.

"Yah, I tell you, I was an excited Swede, but I proved to that fellow it is a bad day for bears when they tackle the sons of the north.

"Well, yes, I was excited, but I had killed many bears, and the feeling soon wore off. I then dragged the carcass around the house and got it on the roof and prepared to skin him. What was my surprise when I had barely started the work to look up and see a mother bear and two pretty cubs advancing through the brush. I had left my gun in the cabin, but it was only a minute until I had leaped down, darted into the house and back with the rifle. One more shot and I had brought down the mother. Two more shots and I had bagged the cubs.

"The little fellows weighed 23 pounds each and made delicious steaks. I was up all that night skinning bears. I now have the skins in town, and they tell for themselves there was class to that family. Every skin is in fine condition. The male bear was a large fellow. I think he had been there before.

"Only a day or two previous I had been away from the cabin for a day and had left a sack of bread, which I had bought in Dawson, under the bed in the sack. Some bear came in, took the sack, bread and all, and ran away with it into the gulch. I tracked him and found some of the bread. A pound of nails also were in the sack, and I regret the fellow took them off and hid them, because I needed those nails with which to stretch his hide. A good many more bears are around Dion and I can deliver bears to order, dead or alive."—Dawson (N. W. T.) Dispatch to N. Y. Sun.

Here's a True Detective Story as It Developed in Real Life Today

How Murderer Schmidt Was Caught With Only a Pillow Case for a Clue—Inspector Faurot, Successful Sleuth, Tells How Fatal Label, Cast Up by Murky Waters, Traced Unfrocked Priest.

(By Norman Rose.)

New York, Sept. 19.—A short, stocky man with a round face leaned against a desk in the detectives' room in the great New York police headquarters. He seemed tired, but in his keen, well-set eyes there was a look of wonderful satisfaction.

Not at all the man you'd pick for a Lecocq, or a Sherlock Holmes—this Joseph A. Faurot.

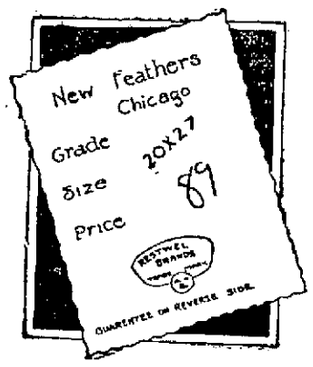
Nothing hawklike about that chubby face.

Nothing in that stout figure to suggest stealth.

But no old sleuth of lurid-lidded fiction ever followed a trail more relentlessly or more swiftly to its conclusion than this same Inspector Faurot, when he unearthed the man who betrayed and butchered Anna Aumuller.

Nothing but a pillow case with a letter "A" embroidered on it, to lead to the discovery of one of the cruelest and craftiest murderers known in all the history of murder, and yet—

"It was simple," said Inspector



THE CLUE.

Faurot. "The pillow case was plenty. There was just one place where we had to take a chance. We took it, and right there the whole knot unraveled.

"What were the steps?

"Well, there weren't so many as you might think. First, we had that pillow-slip, on which was the name of the manufacturers.

"To whom in New York had the manufacturers sold slips of this pattern lately?

"They told us, when we asked, that their books showed the sale of twelve of these slips to George Sachs, a second-hand furniture dealer in Harlem.

"Step No. 1 had been taken and step No. 2 led to Sachs.

"Of course, we might have had to go back on our tracks if Sachs' sales had led up 'blind alleys.' The first one did. He had sold one of the pillowcases to the captain of a canal boat. Considering that the pieces of the girl's body had been fished out of the river, that clew looked good.

"Which just goes to show that you can never tell. The canal boatman soon convinced us that we were wasting our time on him. A much less likely looking clew was the sale of one of the slips and a lot of other furniture to a man named Hans Schmidt, who had the stuff delivered at a little third-floor rear flat in Harlem.

"Step No. 3 was to go to that apartment. Detective O'Neil and I went there and learned that on August 25 a man had rented the flat, paying $5 on deposit, and on August 26 had taken possession, with a woman.

"September 2 we learned, the remaining $14 of the month's rent was paid by the man. From that day neither the man nor the woman was seen to go in or come out.

"For four days we watched that apartment. I couldn't wait any longer.

"Then it was that I decided to take that chance.

"I hadn't any right to do what I did, with no more to go on than I had, but the thought of what might lie behind that locked door in those silent rooms was too compelling for me to resist, and I took step No. 4.

"With a broken hammer I forced the door. O'Neil and I stepped softly in. The stillness itself seemed ghastly, and we knew in our hearts after one glance around that we had found the place we were looking for.

"The bed in the bedroom was bare of mattress and pillows. In the closets were hanging suits of men's clothes and a lot of woman's attire. Two trunks were filled with a woman's clothes.

"The place had been washed and cleaned, but we found four bars of soap still bloody, stained rags and a blood-stained scrubbing brush.

"Here was the place where the woman had been killed and cut up.

"We must find who she was, and who had murdered her. We came upon a letter addressed to Anna Aumuller, care of St. Boniface church. We thought at once of the "A" on the pillowcase. We found in the trunks underwear which matched the chemise in which one piece of the body was found. We found part of the copy of the New York paper in which another part of the body had been wrapped.

"In the bathroom we found the saw, the butcher knife and wire like that with which the bundles had been tied. But what counted most of all was the letter addressed to Anna Aumuller, care St. Boniface church.

"Hans Schmidt had rented the apartment. Beyond a shadow of a doubt Hans Schmidt was the murderer.

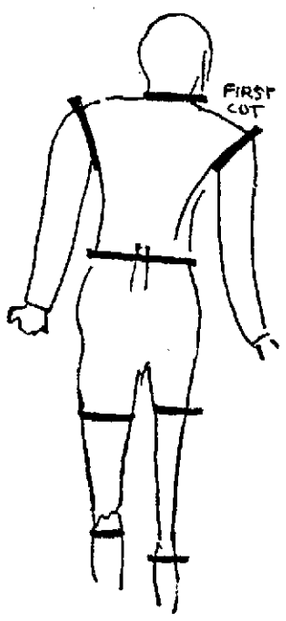
"Was Hans Schmidt a real or an assumed name?

"If the former, were we going to be able to get any trace of him at St. Boniface church, where the girl had evidently been employed?

"Step No. 5 was to go to St. Boniface church and have these questions answered. When we confronted the pastor, Rev. J. S. Braun, and he told us Hans Schmidt had assisted in pastoral duties, our work was almost done. To put our hands on Schmidt was all that remained. When we showed him Anna's picture, and asked him whether he had killed her, he just crumpled up and our task was finished."

So, you see how simple it was, according to Inspector Faurot.

Simple, indeed—but if Faurot hadn't broken down that door in the silent Harlem flat it still might house its grim mystery, and Hans Schmidt might have taken himself hence with a steamboat ticket—or with that keen razor blade they found in his pocket.



IN THIS DIAGRAM OF ANNA AUMULLER'S BODY THE OUTLINE WAS DRAWN BY INSPECTOR FAUROT AND THE CROSS-LINES PUT IN BY MURDERER SCHMIDT HIMSELF TO SHOW JUST HOW HE CUT IT UP BEFORE THROWING IT IN THE RIVER.

WINS HIGH HONOR IN SEVEN YEARS

Russian Immigrant Girl in Remarkable Educational Achievement.

WOULD HELP OTHERS

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Does America give the immigrant a chance? Well, it seems to depend largely on the immigrant. At least, that's what Elfriede Nerica says.

Miss Nerica came to this country seven years ago from Russia. Neither she nor any of her family could speak a word of English.

ELFRIEDE V. NERICA.

The other day Miss Nerica received her diploma from the University of Chicago and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa the oldest of all college fraternities, which chooses its members for high scholarship.

That means that in seven years this little foreign girl learned the English language, did the eight years' work of a high school and university, and did it better than nine-tenths of her fellow graduates.

And at the same time she earned her own tuition and kept house for her mother and brother.

"Of course, it was hard work," she says. "I had done the grammar school work in Russia, and had studied German and French. When I started to school in Chicago—I was 15 then—they put me in the third grade. I got dreadfully discouraged. So after a few days I left the day school and started in the night school. There I took only English. I studied it for five months and then entend the high school.

"Naturally, I hadn't gained a thorough knowledge of English in five months, and my high school work seemed slow, because I had to learn so many words as I went along. But I succeeded in graduating at the end of three years, instead of the usual four.

"In college, too, I was so eager to learn that I did much more work than was required, studying eleven months a year and doing the four years' work in three."

Miss Nerica has accepted a position for next year as German instructor in the Dubuque high school. But that, she says, is only temporary. She has specialized in sociology and looks forward to a career of social service.

"I realize," she says, "that while it is possible for intelligent and ambitious immigrant boys and girls to do as I have done, there are so many grown immigrants who need help and guidance when they reach America. And I want to help them, especially my fellow-countrymen."

Young Man Accused of Attempting to Force Wife to Swallow Poison.

New York, Sept. 19.—Tony Bellucia, 20 years old, barber, of 245 East 121st street, according to testimony given in Harlem court, when he was arraigned on a charge of attempted felonious assault on his wife, Florence, 17 years old, sought to force poison down her throat. Policeman Massie said Bellucia admitted he wanted his wife to join him in a double suicide by drinking a bichloride of mercury solution.

Mrs. Bellucia testified that her husband had been out of work for some time. He returned home discouraged, and, she said, tried to make her swallow the poison. She said he caught her by the throat and choked her until her cries brought neighbors.

Magistrate Harris held the barber for examination.

"Out of Focus" Eyes

Eyes that do not see well are simply out of focus—as a camera or pair of opera glasses can be out of focus.

The way to make them see well is to fit them with the glasses that counteract the improper focus.

Our harmless, dropless, costless method of eye testing detects the trouble.

And we will furnish the proper glasses at a minimum cost.

Have you Money To Invest?

An investment is a good or bad one, according to the returns one obtains from the expenditure of money. These returns are not always in dollars and cents. Some of the most profitable, in fact, cannot be summed up that way.

Take, for example, the money expended in your education—

IT PAYS A GOOD DIVIDEND EVERY DAY

Doesn't it?

The money you invest in a piano is in the same class. It pays its dividends in pleasure—adds to the refinement of the home—makes home ties more secure—gives the wife and children an opportunity for culture obtainable in no other way—and is a joy and pleasure lasting a lifetime. Let us help you to make your piano investment. You get all the dividends—sure delivery at that. Call us by phone. It's our business—piano investment brokers.

"Mother Stuart," Best Bread Baker in Ohio, Tells How to Make It.

MRS. STUART

(Editor's Note. Mrs. Stuart won the bread baking prize at the Ohio state fair. She is 70 years old and lives on a farm. She has a reputation as a fine all-around cook. After getting her blue ribbon she drove home alone forty five miles.

(By Mrs. Mary Stuart.)

It takes years of experimenting to make a good bread baker. Lots of women using the same recipe and following the same general method don't get the same results at all. But that's because they don't do it exactly right.

If the recipe is good, all you've got to do is to experiment till you learn just how to apply it, and then baking good bread will become second nature to you. I don't think I could spoil a batch of bread if I tried.

Here's the way I make it: To make five loaves I peel three small potatoes and boil them in about two quarts of water with a tablespoonful of salt, one of sugar and one of flour. When the potatoes are cooked, I mash them very fine, and when the mixture is blood-warm I break a cake of yeast in it.

I let this stand over night. Next morning I mix it with the flour, and let the dough stand till it has doubled in size. Then I knead it stiff and place it in the pans.

I don't set any special time for baking the loaves. I just bake them till they're done.

Now, it stands to reason that any other woman who goes at it intelligently can learn by this method to bake just as good bread as I can. But it takes patience and careful observation, so you can know just what your mistakes have been, and avoid them next time.

It may take several years but when you finally learn the secret, you've got it for your whole lifetime.

FRIENDS EXPECTED HER TO DIE.

"I sincerely believe my life was saved in the fall of 1910 by using Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Mrs. Agnes Booth, Tonawanda, N. Y. "I was taken with diarrhoea followed by an attack of acute indigestion. Power of the pen fails to portray the agonies I endured. My friends expected me to die as I had been unable to get relief for so long a time. This remedy went directly to the seat of the trouble and cured me in a few hours' time." STARVES AT 96 IN HIS GRIEF.

Grandfather of Senator Beidleman Refuses Food for Fifty-Five Days.

Harrisburg Pa., Sept. 19.—Constantly grieving for the death of his daughter and congenial companion, Miss Emma Beidelman, William Beideman, 96-year-old grandfather of Senator E. E. Beidleman, died after a fasting spell of fifty-five days, in which he had eaten only two small pieces of toast.

Often offered food, he as often replied that when he wanted it he would ask for it. About a week ago physicians were sent by the family to see Mr. Beidleman, and they found that his robust constitution, which had permitted him to live to his advanced age, was giving away under the hardships of his self-imposed fast, and warned him that death would follow. The aged man smiled and said that he did not think he cared to eat.

WOMEN WIN JUDGE'S PRAISE.

"Most Conscientious Body That Ever Heard a Case in My Court."

Chicago, Sept. 19.—"The most conscientious body of jurors that ever heard a case in my court," said Justice of the Peace Kendall, describing the first complete woman's jury that ever sat in a misdemeanor case in the state of Illinois. "They missed their dinners and deliberated for two hours over a case that a jury of men would have tossed off with a laugh in ten minutes."

They heard testimony relating to a family quarrel between the Andrew Orths and the Edward O'Day's. They assessed fines of $1 against Orth and $5 against O'Day, and then they did the feminine thing—they cried. Half the jury tried to comfort Mrs. Orth and her four children at once, while the other half assured the justice that none of the women jurors would accept the customary fees.

HOW ETHNOLOGIST DIED IN ISLANDS

Had Just Completed Mission for Field Museum in Chicago

IN WILDS OF LUZON

Chicago, Sept. 15.—In the ethnological section of the Field museum is gathered a wonderful collection of exhibits from the remote regions of the head hunters of the Philippine islands. One might pass hours there and not grow weary, for all is so strange, so "different" from the accustomed channels of American city life. How many of the thousands that throng those corridors daily begin to understand the price that has been paid in order that they may have the privilege of an interesting afternoon!

Dr. William Jones was for years one of a group of ethnologists connected with the Field museum. His business was the seeking out of peculiar races of peoples, and a great part of his life he has passed among the darker and more inaccessible regions of the earth, bringing materials to light of deepest interest not only to his own profession, but to the world in general.

In the year 1908 he sent himself to an assignment which was probably the most difficult of any he had ever before undertaken. His field of investigation was a mountainous area of Northwest Luzon, a region where the foot of no white man before him had ever rested. His entrance into the country he made accompanied by a single Filipino boy, a member of one of the intelligent, civilized Christian tribes in the neighborhood of Manila. Thus attended, he began his labors among the Ilongot, a race of savages, most of whom had never been far enough from their native wilds to see a white man before.

Indefatigably he toiled in the vast solitude. Home, with its comforts and kinship of companionable creatures of his own race, was grimly put behind. His task was the one in hand and he bent over it with an indomitable will. He gathered specimens of every phase of th tribal life, constructed models where specimens were impracticable, won his way into an intimate knowledge of their life and customs, even made their language his own.

For months the highest efforts of his trained skill were concentrated on this labor. Not till his task was ended did he allow his mind to dwell on the hard earned reward of civilization and friends.

But it was destined that he should never reap the fruits of his labor, never feel the warm hand clasp of welcoming friends, never hear the adulations and praise of those who awaited his coming home. In a moment of sudden rage a headman's savage spear sought him for a mark and his life flowed from him. The faithful native boy managed to escape with the mutilated body and brought the story to the outside world.

Another expedition, when the word was known, penetrated the Ilongot country and brought away his dearly bought collection. You may see it today in the great collection in the Field museum in Jackson park.

At the time of the events recorded it happened that I was stationed at a little native town that lay at the foot of the trail that led up into the country where Dr. Jones had been slain. The duty of rounding up the assassins fell to friend of mine, Governor Bryant, of the province of Nueva Viscaya. He was successful and from his own lips I had the story of their capture.

According to the savage code of the Ilongon, a man who slays another of his own village is not an object of summary justice. So long as the affair is not a feud and the head of the murdered person is not taken as a trophy of the conflict, no wheels of justice are set in motion. He may, and usually does, buy off the wrath of the bereaved family by an apology in the shape of a few chickens or hogs.

When Governor Bryant and his Ilocano soldiers appeared no attempt was made to conceal the three guilty ones. Very manfully they volunteered more than the usual indemnity and expressed regret that they had so far forgotten themselves as to cause the white man's death. Imagine their overwhelming surprise when this was not allowed to close the incident. They were promptly taken into custody—a new experience for these wild men—and conveyed through the wilderness to Bayombong, the capital of Nueva Viscaya, where was located the nearest civil court.

The trial was the merest form, for the three culprits never denied their act, but they were desperately puzzled to understand this commotion of the outside world over an affair so trifling, and one which seemed to them a purely personal matter. The sentence was the death penalty (for an object lesson must be given to their uncivilized fellow tribesmen), to be carried into effect in Manila, four days' journey south.

The first three days of the journey to the insular capital was to be by foot over the winding and steep Villaverde trail—a trail too narrow for even a cart to pass. Two of the prisones were handcuffed wrist to wrist, the third had his hands fettered together. Native soldiers, fully armed, followed them.

The story of the three prisoners' escape is yet classic in that country. It occurred five miles from my house, up the narrow trail. I could show you the spot if you would go with me—the precipitous slope away from the trail where the desperate men plunged amid flying bullets to the jungle thicket far below and finally disappeared.

A week later one of the three was captured as he attempted to cross a stream that marked the boundary of his own territory. The other two have never been heard of to this day. Whether they perished in the gloomy jungle or eventually reached the waiting huts of their own people, none can say.

Because of the escape of his fellow culprits the one captured man had his sentence commuted by the governor general of the islands to life imprisonment. He is today serving his sentence in Billibid prison, Manila, and wondering whether he will ever again see his native hills. Even yet he does not understand.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago Market.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Apparent certainty that wheat and flour would be on the free list made wheat prices here today heavy. Resting commission orders to buy at a decline formed the only support. The opening was the same as last night to one-fourth lower and the market suffered some additional setback.
The close was steady at prices ranging from last night's level to ⅝c down.
Clear weather favoring shipments from the farms brought about weakness in corn. Prices started ¼@⅜c off and later showed a further sag.
The close was steady, ¼@½c net higher.
Oats eased in sympathy with other grain. Trade was only of a scattered sort.
Declines in corn and hogs carried down provisions. First sales were unchanged to 10c lower.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Sept. 19.—New Haven and California Petroleum, which were weak yesterday, again declined in first transactions today. New Haven receded a point to 86, within one-half of its low record. California Petroleum fell back 1¼. Except for a drop of a point in Canadian Pacific ,there were no other changes which exceeded small fractions. Trading was light with an uncertain tone.
Traders worked for a reaction today in theory that the buoyancy of the market late yesterday was merely the result of a drive at the short interest which had been largely reduced on th recent advance. Little was accomplished in lowering prices, except in the case of Union Pacific, which became weak after displaying a rising tendency. Bonds were easy.
The market closed heavy. Weakness of government bonds was a contributory cause of the late depression. The 2s fell to 98¾ bid and other issues were quoted ¼ to ½ lower. Pressure against stocks diminished before the close but the market showed little recuperative power.

HOW I FELT AS I WAS DROWNING

Girl Rescued Just in Nick of Time Describes Her Sensations.

ALL WERE PLEASANT

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 19.—Entrancing dreams, enchanting visions, sounds of languid, celestial music, the subtle odor of rare perfumes—all these came to a young girl as she was drowning. The girl, Miss Laura Bennett, had gone down three times in the surf before she was rescued by life-savers.

MISS LAURA BENNETT.

Vividly Miss Bennett tells of how it feels to drown. Such strange fascination did the marvelous visions she saw have on her that when she was revived her first words were: "I want to go back. It seems to be I was being wafted through space on a great pile of narcissus, with a slim hand of golden-haired girls dancing languidly about me, singing.
"For the first few seconds it was terrible," she said. "It seemed that some huge, cruel hand was gripping my throat and choking me slowly—oh, so slowly, but relentlessly. It seemed to me that I was trying to tear his fingers away from my throat, but somehow I seemed to have lost all my strength.
"Then, all of a sudden, everything changed. The pain all disappeared and there came a feeling of absolute drowsy peace. Some wonderful perfume came to me, and for several seconds I tried to figure out what it was. Finally I recognized it as the subtle odor of the narcissus blossom.
"For a long time I lay and basked in that perfume. Then sound of singing came to me—a gentle lullaby set to a tune that could never have been written by mortals. It was too seductivee. And then a group of slender girls came walking lightly along, singing as they came. They were clad in great swathing veils of all the colors of the rainbow—although a tint of pale violet seemed to predominate. One of them carried a tiny gilt harp, and now and again she would touch the strings in some soft chord, to go with the singing.
"Then came the most remarkable thing of all. One of the singing girls, a dainty little thing with great masses of red gold hair, came up to me, stretching out a cool, slim hand and touched my forehead.
"Then, one by one, grew more and more dim, and finally dematerialized.
"And then finally I heard a human voice say, 'Thank God—she's all right. She's coming 'round.'"

FLEES BULL; GETS INTO FIRE.

Farmer Near Muskegon Has Thrilling Experience in Tree.

Muskegon, Mich., Sept. 19.—Attacked by a bull and forced to take refuge in a tree, which later caught fire from burning brush, was the thrilling experience of R. T. Lane, an Eggleston township farmer living near here, yesterday. Lane managed to beat out the fire in the tree. He had his eyebrows burned off and his clothing scorched. He climbed sixty feet into the tree before he was able to check the flames that spread through the branches.
The bull kept in the neighborhood of the tree and Lane was unable to make his escape for several hours. Finally a line of fire forced the bull away from the tree and Lane was able to descend. He fled through the hot embers of the brush fire and had one foot burned.

WINS WAR WITH 'PHONE COMPANY

Nevada Man is Called the 'Best Single-Handed Talker" in State.

REFUSED TO RESIGN

Gardnerville, Nev., Sept. 19.—Jean Phillips was superintendent of the Gardnerville division of the Nevada Consolidated Telephone and Telegraph company, whose vice president was A. G. Sweeney, then supreme justice of Nevada. The company had two exchanges, one at Gardnerville and the other at Carson City, eighteen miles away. The Pacific states gave them long distance switches out of

JEAN PHILLIPS.

Carson City. They had about 300 miles of wire, extending to telephones scattered through a rugged mountainous country. The company paid fat dividends.

Jean Phillips had been on a vacation. Upon his return he found a letter from Judge Sweeney.

"Because we wish to make some changes in our service we request your resignation." Enclosed with it was a highly flattering letter of recommendation.

Jean tore up the letter. Then he went to see the supreme justice.

"As I understand it," said Jean to the judge, "I'm not fired. I'm asked to resign."

"That's right," said the judge.

"Well, I'm not going to resign. If you had fired me I would get out, but to ask me to resign without giving me the reason, no. I will hold down my job until I know why my resignation is demanded."

This parley ended when Phillips announced:

"I will start another company and run you off your feet."

The judge laughed. It was the best joke he had heard.

Then Jean Phillips returned to Gardnerville, interested local capital, incorporated the United Farmers' Telephone and Telegraph company and held a meeting of the mountaineers.

Judge Sweeney attended that meeting. He was the first speaker. He made a personal attack upon Phillips. When he had finished Phillips spoke. His speech was very brief.

He read the recommendation Judge Sweeney had sent in the letter requesting his resignation.

"Now, gentlemen," asked Phillips, "how many men are there willing to trust me personally with not only the money in this new company, but with all their money?"

The only men who didn't stand up were Judge Sweeney and Alfred Karge, president and general manager of the Nevada Consolidated.

Phillips refused to accept the presidency of the new company, which strengthened confidence in him.

He built a line into Carson City and then, through the state railroad commission, forced the Nevada Concolidated to give the United Farmers' long distance switches through their own telephone exchange. This move won the battle, for it saved the expense of building an exchange. Phillips finally forced the Nevada Consolidated to sell its Gardnerville exchange for $9,000, instead of $21,000 the price Judge Sweeney held out for in the beginning.

"You're the best single-handed talker I ever saw," said Judge Sweeney to Phillips.

The United Farmers' Telephone and Telegraph company has been in operation a year now and is an assured success.
